PREFACE

Since the publication of the 1910 Catalogue there have been a large number of changes of address; two new Chapters have been installed; our Fraternity Headquarters and Club have been opened and such changes have occurred in the organization of the Fraternity as to render a new Catalogue necessary for the welfare of the Fraternity several years before it was originally intended to publish a new General Catalogue. The plan adopted at this time is entirely different from the former custom of appointing some member of the Council to have entire charge. We believe that through the large and widespread organization of the R. L. Polk Company, publishers of City Directories in New York and many other cities, we are able to gather rapidly and present a far more correct list of names and addresses than before has been possible. It is the plan of the Council to publish this catalogue of names and addresses with a general history of the Fraternity and necessary information, and to leave for some time in the near future the preparation and publication of a detailed history of the Fraternity and of all the Chapters as a companion piece or second volume of this general catalogue.

The present catalogue records the names, Chapters, classes, degrees and in some cases undergraduate societies, scholastic and athletic honors and the major positions of honor and trust in after life and the occupation of our members so far as it has been possible to learn them. Information was derived in the first instance from the members themselves insofar as we were able after every effort to secure such information. However, there are a number to whom four, and in many instances five, letters have been sent, resulting in these letters being returned without any answer. In such cases the address is enclosed in parentheses and is the address secured from the chapter or as it appeared in the last catalogue. In a few cases it has been impossible, even through correspondence with Chapters, colleges, class secretaries, relatives and others to obtain members' addresses, in which case no address appears. We have relied as far as possible on the catalogue of alumni members which every Chapter is required to keep, and on the Representative of each Chapter on the Council. Therefore we trust our members will appreciate that everything possible has been done to secure correct data, but in the case of any unavoidable errors we can only refer the member to his own Chapter as our last resort.

The asterisk (*) precedes the name of a deceased member. Discarded names or portions thereof are enclosed in brackets. For abbreviations see page lxxi. Because of the outbreak of the Great War at the time when most of the data had been collected and was being prepared for press, it is impossible to insert military titles, addresses or honors in this issue. It would not be fair to others for us to publish the relatively few reports of military ranks and honors received before going to press, and therefore in most cases no military titles or ranks are given, except for those holding such prior to the outbreak of the war.

While possible in theory, it is impossible in practice, to produce a work of this sort without imperfections owing to the changes of residence and occupations of our American college alumni, scattered perhaps in all parts of the world, and the difficulty of persuading undergraduate chapters to maintain exact records of their alumni members. However, we believe this publication is as nearly correct as it is possible to make it, and trust it will prove of interest and a valuable asset to the Fraternity, the Chapters, our Alumni Associations and to individual members. If it does so we shall feel repaid for our efforts.

FRATERNITY PUBLICATIONS, RITUAL AND HERALDRY

Catalogues

Catalogues of the Fraternity were issued in 1851, 1855, 1858, 1863, 1867, all of which were published by the Phi Chapter at New Haven; 1871 and 1874 compiled by the Sigma Chapter at Amherst and 1879 compiled by the Columbia Chapter in New York. A very large and illustrated catalogue was published in 1890 as the first general catalogue by George E. Fisher, Beta Phi, and others, and was a monumental work which formed the basis of all future catalogues. A much condensed catalogue and for the most part a reprint of the 1890 volume was published in 1900 and a full catalogue with the history of the Fraternity and histories and illustrations of the different chapters was issued in 1910, Aldice G. Warren, Beta Phi, being the editor. Several of the chapters have published separate catalogues and nearly all of the chapters have at one time or another issued histories in book form or in their annual publications to their alumni. The best known of these separate chapter histories are those of Theta chapter at Bowdoin, published in 1905 by John Clair Minot, and of the Mu chapter at Colgate in 1906 by Harold O. Whitnall.

"The Quarterly"

The Delta Kappa Epsilon Quarterly was established in 1882 and first published in January, 1883, under the direction of the officers of the Council and with Whitelaw Reid, Julian Hawthorne, Charles H. Beckett, Claudius B. Grant, Stewart L. Woodford and other distinguished members of the Fraternity as regular contributors. This was one of the earliest magazines published by fraternities and for the last thirty-five years there has never been a break in this publication, which has carried on the ideals of D. K. E. and has bound together our widely scattered alumni and been a source of interest and strength for our chapters and the general Fraternity during this long period.

The Quarterly is the newspaper of the Fraternity and the only official publication, but it is very easy for men after leaving college to lose all touch with the affairs and interests of their college and fraternity, and with the life and interests of young men, thereby themselves losing much of value of the pleasure of life. The small item of expense involved brings results of real value to subscribers and all alumni members of our fraternity, wherever they may reside, should become regular subscribers, the annual rate being $1.50, and thus keep in touch with their college, chapter and fraternity.

Song Books

In the early days several song books were issued in paper form containing a few of the better known songs, and in 1871 the first official song book was issued. From that time until 1900 no further edition appeared, except a small pamphlet containing 42 of the most popular songs. The 1900 edition, with A. G. Warren as editor, contained over 100 songs and soon ran through the first edition and a second edition was published in 1907. For the past three years the Council has had under way the preparation of an entirely new song book and this has just been issued under the editorship of the President of the Council, Richard T. Greene, Phi Chi. We consider that the new song book is without question the finest fraternity song book yet issued, both as to contents and form. The influence of fraternity songs in student life is very great and the chapter which maintains a tradition of singing is one which can always be relied on as an active and strong chapter. The fraternity and college songs occupy an important place in our student life and it is expected that this song book, issued in the same year as the new catalogue, will be a great help and source of inspiration in the future.

Other Publications

Minor publications, circular letters and pamphlets relating to one matter or another are issued by the Council and chapters from time to time and special attention is called to the value of our chapters sending out at stated intervals to all their alumni, the excellent letters or pamphlets in book form which some of our chapters have of late published. The Council, as occasion arises, also issues pamphlets and circular letters to our members.

Ritual and Heraldry

One of the earliest acts of the new Fraternity at Yale was the adoption of a system of fraternity heraldry and the Delta Kappa Epsilon escutcheon was then adopted substantially as it appears to-day in the Arms of Phi chapter. A description of these Arms and other insignia is presented fully in an article in Volume No. 3 in the Quarterly by Frank W. Lance, and several articles since that time in the Quarterly and the catalogues. Our scheme or system of heradry is well known among other fraternities and was one of the earliest adopted, largely under the guidance of our present historian, John DeWitt Warner, and is being perfected by Herbert Hartwell Gibbs, our former president.

OUR CHAPTER HOUSES

As fraternities were at first purely social, or founded to promote scholastic standing and debating, no idea of building or renting chapter houses seems to have occurred to the members for many years. In some colleges the meeting places were secret and often in the rooms of members. Delta Kappa Epsilon was the first fraternity to erect and maintain a building devoted exclusively to the use of a fraternity. Shortly after the foundation of our Lambda chapter at Kenyon the boys of that small and then almost frontier college laboriously built the famous log cabin in the woods at a distance from the college campus. To bring out the remarkable progress of these fraternities one need only look at the picture of our first building and compare it with the following picture showing our great half a million dollar Fraternity Headquarters and Club. Delta Kappa Epsilon not only erected the first society house in the country, but at Yale built the first "tomb" used by any fraternity, although it followed a similar structure previously built by a Senior Society.

The fraternity was founded in a room of Old South, on the site of which building now stands Vanderbilt Hall. The first regular meeting place was a room in Adelphian Hall, corner of State and Chapel streets. The old "tomb" on York street was built in 1861, largely through the efforts of Henry Holt, the publisher, and the corporation organized to hold title to the property was called the Winthrop Trust Association, named after Theodore Winthrop, the young poet and one of our early members, who in the Union Service was the first officer on either side to be killed at the outbreak of the Civil War. It is an interesting historical fact that the old hall on York street was opened shortly after the beginning of our Civil War and that the last meeting in this building, the property having been acquired by the Yale Corporation for college purposes, was held within a month of the entry of the United States into the Great War this spring. This old "tomb" of Phi has in the intervening 56 years seen many interesting historical events, not only to Delta Kappa Epsilon and Yale but of National interest, occur within its portals and during this long period has sent out many men who have done their part in the history of their land.

All of our 43 chapters own real estate except Iota, Tau Alpha and Omega Chi. Every chapter house occupies a chapter house except Lambda at Kenyon and Sigma Tau at Mass. Ins. Tech., where in both cases the college has given the chapter the exclusive use of a wing in a college dormitory. Further, Lambda owns its meeting hall, built on or near the site of the original log cabin and Sigma Tau still owns its house and lot on Newbury street from which it has just moved. Psi Omega at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute owns a fine lot on the hill and Delta Pi at Illinois owns two lots, and both of these chapter expect soon to build. The past six years has been a period of unrivaled material prosperity for the Fraternity. New chapter houses have been built during that period by Eta at Virginia, Tau Lambda at Tulane, Beta Chi at Western Reserve, Nu at C. C. N. Y., Kappa at Miami, Sigma at Amherst, Psi at Alabama and Kappa Epsilon at Washington. Beta at North Carolina and Beta Phi at Rochester have new houses under way and had it not been for the outbreak of the war, we also would see to-day fine new houses being built for Omicron at Michigan and Theta Zeta at California. Phi Chi at Rutgers, Rho at Lafayette and Epsilon at Williams have rebuilt and enlarged their former buildings so as to constitute almost new houses. Plans have been made for new chapter houses for Alpha Alpha at Middlebury and for Tau Alpha at McGill and it is hoped that as soon as conditions permit, Omega Chi at Texas and Iota at Central will purchase houses, thus completing our entire building programme as a fraternity. The Phi chapter at Yale felt obliged to give up its old hall, partly because of the necessity of the University to secure this only lot in the block not owned by Yale for a great University building, and partly because of the growing desire of most of the younger members for a larger home, which would permit of greater fraternity advantages and development. The Phi chapter has just leased, with option to purchase, a large and valuable house and plot of land in the heart of the city and expects soon after the conclusion of the war to erect thereon a suitable and permanent home for the Mother chapter.

It is difficult to give an exact appraisal of our chapter houses, but a conservative estimate would be to take the figures given in the last issue of Baird's Manual, which was the assessed value of the land with the actual cost of the building, and to add a small amount for the present market value of the land and house and the furniture owned by the chapter at a fair present appraisal. This would show on a conservative basis the following figures: Phi, $37,000 (cash now in bank from sale of old hall as a basis for the funds for a new house); Theta, $35,000; Xi, $15,000; Sigma, $65,000; Gamma, $12,000; Psi, $18,000; Upsilon, $20,000; Beta (the new house), $12,000; Kappa, $17,000; Lambda, $1,000; Eta, $15,000; Pi, $24,000; Alpha Alpha, $7,500; Omicron, $27,000; Epsilon, $50,000; Rho, $35,000; Tau, $12,000; Mu, $37,000; Beta Phi (new house), $25,000; Phi Chi, $27,000; Psi Phi, $7,500; Gamma Phi, $37,000; Psi Omega (land fully paid for),

$3,000; Beta Chi, $22,000; Delta Chi, $65,000; Delta Delta, $27,000; Phi Gamma, $37,000; Gamma Beta, $37,000; Theta Zeta (present house and land purchased for the new house), $60,000; Alpha Chi, $15,000; Phi Epsilon, $15,000; Sigma Tau (Newberry street house), $24,000; Alpha Phi, $27,000; Delta Kappa (two houses), $27,000; Sigma Rho, $15,000; Delta Pi (land purchased for new house), $5,000; Rho Delta, $35,000; Kappa Epsilon, $35,000. In addition Omicron at Michigan owns the historic old hall in the centre of the city worth probably $20,000, and Mu at Colgate also owns a "tomb" as a meeting place worth about $5,000. There are mortgages on the majority of these properties but in no case is the amount excessive and in every case the mortgage debt is being rapidly reduced. To this total of $990,500 which we can state on a conservative basis to be the value of our chapter houses, may be added $450,000 as the actual value of our Fraternity Headquarters and Club in New York City, or a grand total of $1,440,000. The founders of the fraternity and our early members would certainly be astonished at the steady and rapid growth of the vested interests of now nearly one and a half million dollars of this Fraternity, which record proclaims not only the strength of Delta Kappa Epsilon but the great and growing position of all fraternities, and presents an almost unanswerable argument for a system which can accumulate such a great amount of property and call into its service older men of sufficient wealth and position to make possible such a remarkable report of material interests of a college fraternity.

ALUMNI ORGANIZATION AND HONOR ROLL

The growth of the fraternity system in our Colleges, especially during the past ten years, has been extraordinary. There are now more undergraduates living in chapter houses of recognized Fraternities than in all the dormitories belonging to the Universities and Colleges of the land. Our Fraternity alone has property valued at a considerably larger amount than the free endowment of any of the Universities of this country at the time of the Civil War. Our undergraduate family now numbers nearly 1,000 and the business transacted by the different Chapters and by the Council would astonish even those who belong to our Fraternity, but who have not kept in close touch with the great development in Fraternity wealth, activity and influence during the past few years.

As a result of these changed conditions a much greater responsibility is laid upon the central organizations of these fraternities and the tendency has been generally toward some degree of centralized oversight for the purpose of unifying the influence and usefulness of the fraternities. Practically all of the forty-five recognized fraternities belong to the Inter-Fraternity Conference, an organization formed originally to combat anti-fraternity legislation and the political activity directed against them, which a few years ago appeared threatening in parts of the Central West and the South. Today this organization has considerable influence among our Colleges and even in public affairs. Nearly all of these fraternities today maintain a central office, recognized as the headquarters of the business activities of the fraternity and have secured the services of one or more graduate members of experience who give their time to the supervision of business details, visiting the various Chapters and getting in touch with the members of the fraternity, as well as college officials, thus securing co-operation and strengthening not only the particular fraternity concerned, but to some extent assisting in the larger social problems with which our rapidly growing American colleges have to deal.

All this means that not only have the Alumni members of all these Fraternities given their active interest and financial support, but that these older men of means and position must continue, to an ever-increasing extent, this interest and support. The small college boys' society of years past has now developed into a great international collegiate organization, with millions of property, calling for the continued support of all its Alumni members.

To meet the increased expense of carrying out the work now expected of such a Fraternity as Delta Kappa Epsilon, it is evident that the Alumni must subscribe by some systematic method. The first necessity after the reorganization of the Fraternity in 1911, under the more modern methods and ideas, was the providing of a definite, secure income for this purpose. Three methods were suggested; first that we should rely on the local Alumni Associations which had been maintained for many years in different cities or sections; secondly to depend entirely on the sending out of bills or appeals by the Central Office to all our individual members, and thirdly to organize the Alumni of each Chapter in such a way as to create for each a strong, recognized body which would not only assist its own Chapter but would provide for the necessary increased expenses for the work being carried on by the Alumni. The third of these methods was decided on and, after several years of trial, we believe we have created an association representing each Chapter and supporting the Central Organization, similar in theory to the American State and National System. Through this means the income of the Council and the Fraternity has been largely increased and most of our Chapters have associations which are sources of real strength to them and to the Fraternity.

Experience of three years has shown that these Chapter Alumni Associations have proved a real success and are a prominent and most important element in the life and organization of our fraternity. Where the Alumni Association is only nominal it is the universal experience of those actively interested in the fraternity that the Chapter has ups and downs and cannot always be relied on to the extent hoped for all our Chapters. On the other hand, experience has proved during the past three years that those Chapters which have a real, live and well organized Chapter Alumni Association, are those maintained on the highest possible basis in their college and are those on which the general fraternity chiefly relies to advance our best interests. These Chapter Alumni Associations also knit together the alumni and the chapter to the advantage of both and the small dues expected have never been found to reduce financial support to the Chapter or fraternity, but has invariably increased financial support to the Chapter and fraternity and stimulated the activity of the alumni.

In addition to the organization of the Alumni for the support of the General Fraternity and the various Chapters there are twenty-five Regional associations, which include in their membership men from any Chapter who happen to reside in a given city or section. In any event these local associations enable men from different chapters to become acquainted and keep alive the old spirit and interest of College days. Further we need here only mention the half-million dollar Club and Fraternity Headquarters in New York City, provided and maintained by the Alumni as a great general Chapter House and centre of Alumni interest and influence.

At several of our Chapters the Alumni have founded scholarships for the benefit of poorer members of the Chapter and in several cases this privilege is not restricted to members of the Fraternity. At Phi, our parent Chapter; there was raised the sum of $5,000 for the Hogan Scholarship, and several Chapters have established loan accounts to help their members through College. Thus the Alumni have shown their interest in matters formerly considered beyond the realm of Chapter or Fraternity interest; which also suggests the prabability of further development in Fraternity interest and activity among Alumni members.

One of our Alumni members, in answer to the question as to exactly what were the benefits of a College Fraternity and why Alumni should continue to support them, replied as follows: "Our Fraternity provides our members with a home and associates of their choice on entering College; it sets before a member high ideals and incentives which help to develop the best that is in him; it helps him to maintain good scholarship records and to share in various forms of undergraduate activity; it sets a guard upon his conduct as a member; in the management of its affairs it gives him an acquaintance with business methods; in its halls he acquires experience in debate and speaking which in after life proves of lasting benefit; its Chapter House represents a home influence and opportunity for many precious friendships; it gives him the benefit of acquaintance with undergraduates from other colleges and with Alumni of his own and other Chapters; it broadens his view of college life and education and often gives him great opportunity in many ways as an Alumnus throughout his life." A fraternity with such a purpose and a Chapter maintained on the basis expected of our Chapters deserves the organized support of our Alumni, and we believe that hereafter the Alumni of this, and indeed of all other fraternities, will take a still larger part in not only helping their own Chapter and the boys in College, but in organizing the General Fraternity and developing a great College Alumni System, which will be of real benefit to the members in after life and to the colleges and universities of the land.

OUR HONOR ROLL

The record of the members of any Fraternity must of necessity have real meaning, as it shows the character of the members and the generol policy governing selection. Since the foundation of this Fraternity, our members have always been active in College affairs and in after life. We believe that our record in public life, the professions and every sphere of business, will compare favorably with any University or with any Fraternity or other College Organization. The list of men who have received honors in public life is relatively easy to prepare, although there will always be some omissions and such a list has constant additions. However, it is almost impossible to prepare a list of those who have been successful above their fellows in different lines of business or other interests which do not bring them before the public. No comprehensive list was prepared prior to 1911, when the General Secretary compiled a list for Baird's Manual, which has been added to and is now presented to the Fraternity, although with diffidence because of the difficulty inherent in the preparation of such a list for a Fraternity as large as Delta Kappa Epsilon and with so many members who have done their part in the history of their time and Nation.

The General Fraternity has never had any honorary members, and for many years the respective chapters have not been allowed to take in any but actual bona-fide students. This list does not include any of the honorary members of the few chapters having such a class, which would include: President Rutherford B. Hayes, Secretary of State James G. Blaine, Secretary of the Navy and Minister to Austria, Richard W. Thompson, Admiral Foote and others. Only actual active members are included.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS AND CLUB

The growing feeling in recent years among our Alumni that Delta Kappa Epsilon should have a General Headquarters and Clubhouse in New York City finally culminated in the appointment of a General Committee of the Council and of the New York Association. This Committee immediately entered upon its work and after two years of careful consideration and formation of preliminary plans announced in the Spring of 1916, their conclusion that the establishment of such a Headquarters and Clubhouse at that time was not only desirable but essential. Several other leading fraternities already had fine Clubhouses in New York City and the rapid growth of the city and changing conditions made it more and more difficult to maintain interest in an Alumni Association which could only meet at long intervals. Further, we considered ourselves to be a progressive Fraternity, as the one which was the first of all to organize its Alumni and the first to establish and maintain a Clubhouse, in addition to being one which attempts to carry on a large scope of work among the Chapters and Alumni. It was realized that we could not fall behind in this essential matter of having a definite Headquarters and centre for all Fraternity interests and a Clubhouse where Alumni from all parts of the country could foregather and thus realize, as in no other way, that their membership in the Fraternity continues throughout life. The Council and the Chapters realized that the pressing need of the Fraternity was a Headquarters and a Clubhouse of which we could be proud, and Alumni members in all parts of the country keenly felt this need.

The Organization Committee of 200 was then formed with Frederick B. Jennings, Epsilon, as Chairman, James C. Colgate, Mu, as Treasurer, and James Anderson Hawes, Phi, as Secretary. For several months the Committee devoted its energies to obtaining information from various sources and, when about to take up the active work of raising subscriptions and deciding on the location for building a house, met with good fortune such as seldom occurs. The Yale Club built several years ago what was then the largest College Clubhouse ever attempted, and one which ranked among the largest club buildings in the country. However, they outgrew the building rapidly and had just moved into a larger building. At first many doubted whether one fraternity could possibly secure and maintain such a large and handsome building as the Yale Club property, and men of other Fraternities unanimously stated that such a venture would be impossible. However a few had faith in the ability of Delta Kappa Epsilon to secure and maintain this magnificent property, and after a careful canvass of the situation secured first an option and later closed the purchase of this building on 44th Street just west of Fifth Avenue. The campaign to raise funds for the purchase of the building was energetically pushed forward during the summer of 1916, and the Fraternity can never possibly repay the debt of obligation which it owes to such loyal and generous brothers as Frederick B. Jennings, James C. Colgate, A. Barton Hepburn, John P. Munn, Edward B. Close, Henry Harper Benedict, John D. Simpson, John B Dennis, Ogden Reid and others whose devotion to their Fraternity proved itself by such generous subscriptions to the bonds for the purchase and alteration of this great building. After sufficient subscriptions to the bonds had been underwritten to ensure the success of the venture, a circular letter and small pamphlet were sent out to all living Dekes and the Committee was gratified at the result of their campaign for small subscriptions to the bonds and membership in the Club.

The purchase of this property was made under the most favorable terms because the Yale Club desired to dispose of its former building, and this valuable lot and building were secured at such a figure as to make the subscriptions to the bonds a gilt-edged investment. The location of this property in the heart of New York City, which today may be said to be the corner of 44th Street and Fifth Avenue, insures the permanency of the location for years to come. The Club is situated in the centre of the social life of the City, near to all the Subway, Elevated and surface lines and between the Grand Central and Pennsylvania Stations, thus giving us the finest possible location for a Club in this country, and the only building which could possibly be secured in that section.

With the large number of rooms it is believed that the following dues and initiation fees will enable us to maintain the Club on a high standard:

Resident—Residing within twenty miles of City Hall, dues $40. Initiation fee, $30.

Suburban—Residing outside the twenty-mile limit and within forty miles of City Hall, dues $25. Initiation fee, $25.

Non-Resident—Residing outside the forty-mile limit, dues $10. Initiation fee, $15.

All dues are payable semi-annually, except non-resident, which are paid annually.

Members who join the Club within two years after leaving College or professional school, pay only one-half the initiation fee of any class and one-half of the annual dues for two years.

This building is a thirteen-story, fireproof structure with a facade of stone and brick. In the basement is located the receiving and other service rooms and the boiler and machinery rooms; with space in the rear where in the future we hope to have a swimming pool. The building has two passenger and a freight elevator. The first floor is slightly above the street level and contains an attractive reception room, large entrance hall and foyer, coat and telephone rooms, the offices and the Grill Room, perhaps the best known college club room in the country. During the years the Yale Club occupied the building this room became a great centre, and is one of the most appropriate and artistic copies of an old English Taproom to be found on this side. The stucco walls and wood beams of this attractive room, already aged and darkened with the patina of years, will serve as a charming background for D. K. E. trophies. The great stone fire-place is a work of art, and in every way the possibilities of this room are such that it may be made one of the most unique club rooms of the country. The second floor contains the three public rooms of the Club, the Lounge Room in the front being decorated in red silk, the dignified Library in the rear, corresponding in blue silk, and the centre Reception Room in yellow, thus introducing our colors and the symbolism of the Fraternity. In the Lounge Room there are already a number of fine paintings, and it is expected that in the Library the visitor hereafter will see the portraits of our most distinguished members, and we have already been offered stained glass memorial windows, making this fine and dignified room a sort of Westminster Abbey for the Fraternity. It is proposed to gather in the Library a collection of books relating to College, Fraternity, and especially Delta Kappa Epsilon history and interest, which may be made one of the most unique and interesting collections of books to be found in the land.

On the third floor there is an attractive Card Room and a Committee Room and office for the Council and General Secretary, where the business of the Fraternity is transacted and the more essentially Undergraduate and College interests are centred. The rear portion of this floor is taken up with bedrooms.

The next five stories are given up entirely to bedrooms, single or en suite, with or without bathrooms. All these rooms are decorated in an artistic manner, and are large and, we believe, exceptionally comfortable with every modern convenience and luxury.

The ninth floor contains the handsome billiard and pool room, the Meeting Room, used for meetings of the Council, the Board of Governors and the Club Committees, and two private dining rooms with serving room for private dinners, meetings and entertainments.

The large Dining Room occupies the entire tenth floor, and in winter is bright and sunny, while in the summer it is one of the coolest dining rooms in the City because of the height and absence of adjoining buildings, thus giving the full benefit of every breeze. Its generous dimensions allow us to hold large banquets and entertainments and the Greek Temple erected for the stage, and banners of all the Chapters, give a most distinguished appearance to this fine room. It is possible to give banquets to a considerable number and over four hundred can be seated comfortably for entertainments.

The kitchen and service rooms occupy the 11th floor, thus removing any chance of odors permeating the rest of the House.

The rear portion of the twelfth floor contains athletic facilities, a gymnasium, showers and Squash Court, the latest built by the Brunswick-Balk-Collender Company, and we believe the finest in the country. The front portion of the building is utilized as a roof garden, giving a fine view of the city in daytime and a cool resting place during evenings.

It will be necessary to maintain a large membership, but we believe the loyalty and interest of our members will rise to the occasion. The advantages to the individual, whether residing in New York, and thus enabled to use the Club continuously, or as a non-resident for temporary stay or for putting up his friends when visiting New York, and in many other ways, are evident and will be appreciated more and more as time goes on and the Club becomes better known to our members in all parts of the world. We naturally take just pride as a Fraternity in owning this magnificent property, said to be one of the twelve or fifteen largest Club houses of any kind in the country. The opening of this building in January, 1916, marked a milestone in the history of the Fraternity, and indeed of all fraternities, as nothing like this had ever been attempted before, and stands as a monument not only to Delta Kappa Epsilon but to the remarkable growth and present position of influence of the American College Fraternities.

The property is owned by the D. K. E. Holding Corporation, which holds it in trust for the bond holders and for the interests of the Fraternity. The building is leased to the Delta Kappa Epsilon Club, of which the Officers and Board of Governors for the first year are: President, Frederick B. Jennings; Vice-Presidents, A. Barton Hepburn and Harold S. Swift; Treasurer, James C. Colgate; Secretary, Carlisle J. Gleason, and Assistant Secretary and Treasurer, George C. Dodge; the Board of Governors being: Henry Harper Benedict, Maurice Bouvier, Mortimer N. Buckner, James C. Colgate, Edwin N. Chapman, Edward B. Close, John B. Dennis, Arthur A. Goes, Herbert Hartwell Gibbs, James Anderson Hawes, Oswald C. Hering, A. Barton Hepburn, Frederick B. Jennings, James C. McGuire, Walter B. Mahony, W. A. C. Miller, John P. Munn, Henry B. Potter, Ogden Reid, John W. Simpson, Harold S. Swift.

CHAPTER I

Founding of the Fraternity

When Delta Kappa Epsilon was founded in 1844 there were scarcely even the beginnings of the great State Universities, and the largest institutions like Yale and Harvard were relatively small. However, the country was well supplied with a large number of small colleges, extending from Bowdoin in Maine, throughout New England, Middle States and the South, but with few west of the Alleghanies. These colleges were nearly all sectarian, and while somewhat narrow in their outlook attracted the very best men in the country and maintained a cordial respect for scholastic attainment and proved the value of the training given by their service to church and state from the foundation of the country. There was little actual intercouse between the students of the various colleges; intercollegiate athletics were unknown, and in the colleges the great contests were for prizes in Classics, Oratory and Debate.

The early part of the nineteenth century was a period of great unrest in matters political, social, moral and religious. Old conditions were passing away and new factors were making themselves felt. The growth of democracy was the noteworthy change in political affairs and the colleges were no exception to the rule.

In the midst of these exciting times began the growth of the Greek Letter Society, as it was then known, an institution probably the most distinctive of any in the college world, and which today contributes to American College life a peculiar flavor not to be found elsewhere.

The first fraternity to gain a foothold in our colleges was Phi Beta Kappa, founded at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., in 1776. While it was, at the outset, secret in its nature, having an object both social and literary, it has now become purely an honorary fraternity, with high rank in scholarship as the sole qualification for membership. The growth of the real fraternities, which have maintained their distinctive character up to the present time, did not begin until 1825, when Kappa Alpha was founded at Union College. It was organized upon the same general lines as Phi Beta Kappa, and confined its membership to the upper classes. It seemed to satisfy a want in the college world, and was at once successful.

At any rate the next six years saw the founding of some of the most important of the fraternities, namely Delta Phi at Union College in 1827, Alpha Delta Phi at Hamilton in 1832, and Psi Upsilon at Union in 1833.

The fraternities at once encountered the strongest opposition from the faculties of the various colleges. College presidents fulminated against their iniquities, which the cloak of secrecy was believed to hide. The strictest laws against joining them were passed by the college authorities, and to be detected in their membership was often considered a sufficient ground for expulsion from college. The fraternities rapidly grew and extended their influence. Chapters were formed in various colleges, and while there was no intercourse between the fraternities, but often the most bitter rivalry, there gradually grew up a pretty constant communication between the various chapters of each fraternity, coupled with the effort to extend their influence to other colleges which seemed to offer suitable soil for their propagation.

It was in this way that chapters of Alpha Delta Phi in 1837 and Psi Upsilon in 1839 were founded at Yale, where as Junior societies they had attained by 1844 a considerable influence. Dr. Edward Griffin Bartlett, one of the founders of D. K. E., in Vol. I of the D. K. E. Quarterly, gives a very interesting description of the conditions which prevailed at Yale at that time:

"The spring of 1844 seems a queer old time, as I recall it now. Yale to us was the great seat of learning of the world. Rivalry with Harvard had not been thought of, and in fact we knew too little and heard too rarely of the Cambridge school, to take even a languid interest in its welfare. Boating there was none. Baseball had not been invented. We played football with each other, and not according to Rugby. 'The College Press' had then no existence. The great honors of the college were the commencement appointments, each of graded importance, all allotted among the twenty 'oration men' who led their class in general standing. Scarcely secondary to these were the honors of the great literary societies, the 'Brothers in Unity,' and 'Linonia.' The membership in these societies extended throughout the four years' course, and the rivalry between them was so intense that committees of each went as far as New York to interview probable freshmen, and impress them with the merits of the societies respectively. The most of the upper class men lived in the college dormitories, where the seniors had first choice of rooms, the juniors the second, and so on down to the freshmen. Our bitterest grievance was the iron rule which compelled attendance at five-o'clock-in-the-morning prayer, on which occasion cloaks and boots at least were expected to be worn. Our most favored recreation was the 'Beethoven' club with its orchestra and fifty trained voices. But the time was close to the line between the old and the new. Our class of '46 received the last diplomas signed by President Day, and our class instituted the first gymnasium, bringing Sheridan from New York to instruct us for the first few months.

"There were then two so-called Junior societies at Yale, Psi Upsilon and Alpha Delta Phi. Their main object was to associate groups of students high in college standing, skilful in college politics, who should mutually coöperate to increase the share of honors which should fall to each, while another scarcely secondary aim was in secret meeting to enjoy private drill in oratory and composition—preparatory to the exercises of the open literary societies.

Such, then, were the conditions in the college and fraternity world, just before the organization of the new Fraternity, which was soon to take so prominent a part in college life, and to take its position almost from the first as one of the "Big Three," which have ever since been acknowledged leaders among the college fraternities.

A preliminary meeting was held in room 12 of Old South on June 22, 1844, and during the first week in July, a committee of which Horton of Alabama was chairman drew up the written articles under which the new society was organized.

These articles were signed by Wm. W. Atwater, Edward G. Bartlett, Frederick P. Bellinger, Junr., Henry Case, George F. Chester, John B. Conyngham, Thomas I. Franklin, W. Walter Horton, Wm. Boyd Jacobs, Edward V. Kingsley, Chester N. Righter, E. Bacon Shapleigh, Thomas D. Sherwood, A. Everett Stetson, Orson W. Stow. All of them have long since joined the chapter invisible; but the organization which they founded that day has grown to such mighty proportions, has enrolled among its members such a multitude of men who have played an active part in our country's history, that the names of this little group of founders will ever be revered.

The first meeting was indeed historical. Here the name, D. K. E., was definitely adopted, the Greek motto was formulated, the matter of a badge discussed, and a design of one made by Bartlett, showing a diamond-shaped badge, bearing a scroll upon which were the letters D. K. E., and having in each corner a star. This design was handed to the artist Inman, who sketched it in the form which was adopted by the society, adding the word "Yale" beneath the scroll. Meetings afterward were held in a hall at the corner of State and Chapel streets, where the lack of furniture and adornment was at first much in evidence. But perhaps here also plain living induced high thinking, for the literary features of the new society were emphasized from the first.

From the beginning the principle of selection which seems everywhere to have characterized D. K. E. was the one which the new organization followed. Recognizing the value of genuine scholarship, and emphasizing their desire to promote it, they still felt that scholarship alone was not sufficient; that coupled with it must be that quality of good fellowship, which induced its possessor to struggle to achieve, not that he might occupy some proud position alone, but that he might become more worthy to share in the common joys, to add his little to the common glory. In the words of one of our members, "The ideal of culture, which lies at the very root, and is at once the justification for the existence of the fraternity and the reason of its growth, is this—that it has associated culture with good-fellowship. It has multiplied and intensified the delight of the individual in the things of the spirit, by teaching him to pursue them with his fellows."

CHAPTER II

The Formative Period—1844–1865

Yale was in 1844 the college which most nearly approximated a national institution, drawing its members from all over the land. As the new society grew and flourished it began to attract the attention of kindred spirits in other colleges. Shapleigh, one of the founders of D. K. E., had a friend, John S. H. Fogg, who had grown up with him in the town of Eliot, Maine, and with him had prepared for college in the Academy of their native village. But when Shapleigh entered Yale, Fogg remained in Maine, entering Bowdoin. So when the great event of the founding of a new Junior society at Yale took place, Shapleigh wrote a stirring account of it to his friend, Fogg, who became at once imbued with the spirit of the new movement, and suggested to a circle of his choicest friends the propriety of securing a chapter of the new organization at Bowdoin.

The suggestion met with instant favor, and it was soon arranged that Shapleigh and Bartlett should visit Bowdoin in September, 1844. They drove from Portsmouth, N. H., to Brunswick, Me. The Faculty at Bowdoin, knowing the object of their visit, received them with decided coolness. Prof. Packard, who was Shapleigh's cousin, refused to invite Bartlett to a commencement party which he was giving, so Shapleigh also refused to attend, and the evening was spent in becoming acquainted with the proposed charter members of the new chapter. So pleased were the Yale men with what they learned, that they made all the arrangements for granting a charter to the new organization, modifying the methods which had been used at Yale by selecting the members from the three upper classes instead of from the Junior class alone. The Yale chapter, which had taken the name Phi, at a meeting held October 16, 1844, took favorable action on the application for a charter at Bowdoin, delegated Thomas D. Sherwood to install the new chapter; and on the night of November 6, 1844, the Theta chapter of Bowdoin was formally organized under a charter issued by Phi under date of November 1, 1844, and the members were duly initiated. The fact that the initiation fee was fixed at $1.50 witnesses the simplicity of the times. Thus in the first six months of its existence, D. K. E. became an intercollegiate fraternity.

The third chapter of the Fraternity was Zeta, established at Princeton, September 15, 1845. The staid Calvinism of the New Jersey college was most unfavorable for the growth of a secret fraternity. Faculty opposition was at once aroused, and the next year, after its membership had reached the fatal number twenty-three, the chapter was forced to go. It was again revived six years later, but after a brave but hopeless struggle for five years, the edict of the faculty banished it forever from Princeton. Its sixty-nine members have nearly all passed away, and Princeton, by her own act, has been deprived of the strongest bond which unites the various colleges, and teaches them that even those institutions which are numerically weak, have men worthy to rank with the greatest.

With the zeal which has always characterized Theta, as soon as she was firmly established at home she became imbued with the missionary spirit, and started to carry the gospel to her nearest neighbor, Waterville (afterwards Colby), College. She soon found congenial spirits there, and an active correspondence was carried on with the little band in the neighboring college.

Considerable faculty opposition was here from the first encountered, but the new Chapter was finally installed on June 25, 1846.

The next college to make overtures for a chapter was Amherst. Though it seems that the first suggestion to Phi in this regard came from Theta, yet the Amherst men applied directly to the mother chapter, and met with such a favorable reception that a charter was soon voted her, on October 30, 1846; and Ledoux, one of her applicants, went to New Haven on November 14, where he was initiated in due form and with much ceremony. He was then authorized to return to Amherst and initiate the rest of the applicants, and was given a charter for the Sigma chapter dated November 1, 1846. He carried out his mission, and from the beginning the Sigma chapter has held a strong and honorable position in the Fraternity.

So rapid was the growth of Delta Kappa Epsilon during the first decade of her existence, and so symmetrical was her development in the two sections to which this growth was confined, that there is a temptation to ascribe it to a carefully planned and well worked out system. Yet if we are to rely upon the almost unanimous testimony of her alumni, and especially of those who were most active in promoting this development, it was not the result of any systematic propaganda, but was rather a spontaneous growth. The members of Phi were filled with enthusiasm over their new organization of kindred spirits. It was the great theme of conversation among themselves, and quite naturally they talked and wrote about it to their friends at home, some of whom were students in other colleges. These recognized the value of the new social factor, and were particularly attracted by the principle of combined scholarship and good fellowship upon which its members were chosen. There was an abundance of good material from which to form chapters; no spirit of ultra-conservatism or of college snobbishness hindered the granting of charters; so we find that from the founding of the Fraternity in 1844 to 1854, eighteen charters were granted by Phi.

Yet in spite of this rapid growth, almost the entire development was confined to New England and the South. Only two chapters, Zeta at Princeton and Kappa at Miami, were outside of these two sections. How did it happen that such rapid progress was made in two sections so remote from each other? We have seen how the growth in New England began. The friendship between one of the Phi men and a man from Bowdoin had started the growth here. In the South a similar cause produced like results.

As stated, Yale was more nearly a national college than any other. Her students came from all sections of the country, but especially from among the sons of the wealthy planters of the South did she draw a large number. They were worthy representatives of those chivalrous times. Warm-hearted, enthusiastic, brilliant in oratory and debate, firm in their friendships, skilled in political strategy as well as in scholarship, leaders in every branch of college activity, it was but natural that the new movement should strongly appeal to them. And so we find that D. K. E. had a much larger membership from the sons of the South than did either of her rivals. Though but two of her founders, Franklin of Maryland and Horton of Alabama, were from below Mason and Dixon's line, yet one of them, Horton, was the acknowledged leader in college in oratory and extempore debate, and the other took high rank in scholarship; and of the two succeeding classes, thirteen out of thirty-eight members were from the southern states. In the classes from '46 to '62, the ante bellum days of the Fraternity at Yale, D. K. E. initiated ninety-three men from the South, more than her rivals, Psi Upsilon and Alpha Delta Phi, together had taken. Such a large number of southern men did she have, and so influential were they in college affairs, that Delta Kappa Epsilon became known as the Southerners' Fraternity. And when the Zeta chapter was established in Princeton, every one of the twenty-three members who were takn in during the first period of its activity was from the South, while of the forty-six members initiated after the revival of the chapter in 1852, but nine came from the North.

It was natural, then, that these ardent members should become missionaries of the new order in their own homes. And so we find that Hitchcock and Horton and Webster took up actively the work of establishing D. K. E. in the best southern institutions. The colleges of the South before the war, because the men who held the reins of government were of the educated aristocracy, were on an entirely different basis from those of the North.

To these institutions of the South, did Delta Kappa Epsilon give special attention, and proceeded in a way at once enterprising and conservative. April 25, 1846, it was

> "Resolved, No one present opposing, that ——— (about to visit Columbia, S. C.) be requested to judge whether the prospects were favorable for establishing a chapter of the D. K. E. Society at the College of South Carolina."

And for six years was that college the frequent subject of correspondence, visitation and report before Delta received her charter. In April, 1847, Gamma was placed at the University of Nashville under the supervision of Henry Hitchcock, of Phi, who by two years' attendance at that institution had become intimately acquainted with the students, from whom he selected the charter members. At the University of Alabama the investigation and negotiations were conducted with equal thoroughness. In April, 1847, a band of youth, chosen under Webster's direction, applied for a charter, and in June following Psi of D. K. E. was formally recognized. From that date forward there was left little for Phi to do in extending the Fraternity in the South. Early in 1848, and repeatedly afterwards, the parent chapter acknowledged the zeal of Psi, in preparing the way at the College of South Carolina, and was soon under equal obligation to the same chapter for its efforts in the University of Mississippi and North Carolina. As to these, efforts were crowned with success, and D. K. E.'s long indulged hope realized in the spring of 1851.

April 12, 1851 (Phi to "branches"): "We congratulate our brethren of the chapters and call on them to unite with us in welcoming to our constellation two new and brilliant stars; Beta, at the University of North Carolina, and Chi, at the University of Mississippi."

While a similar message, of date May 10th, 1851, announced the establishment of Delta at the College of South Carolina. There was now left but one great Southern institution for D. K. E. to enter, and in the autumn of 1851 the Beta, scarce six months old, undertook the preliminaries of establishing a chapter at the University of Virginia. As a result, in October, 1852, a petition was sent from that University signed by a picked body of students and granted in November, Phi's greeting to the new chapter saying with cordial frankness:

"It has long been our desire to establish a chapter in your University. From its high position as a literary institution, we regard it as an admirable location for a branch of our fraternity." This closed the planned campaign in the South.

The two great fraternities which confronted Delta Kappa Epsilon at Yale had the advantage of several years of growth. As we have seen, Alpha Delta Phi was founded in 1832 and Psi Upsilon in 1833; the former had established her chapter at Yale in 1837, and the latter in 1839; but while Alpha Delta Phi had eleven and Psi Upsilon ten chapters in 1844, neither of them had ventured out of the eastern territory, except that in 1835 Alpha Delta Phi had planted a chapter at Miami, and in 1841 at the Western Reserve, both of which colleges were then considered "in the west." Neither of them had ventured into the South, and so the rapid growth of D. K. E. in that section was not opposed by either of her Yale rivals. It was not until 1852 that she entered western territory by planting the Kappa Chapter at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. During the years in which she had grown so rapidly in the South, she had also been strengthening her hold upon New England by founding the Upsilon chapter at Brown University, July 25, 1850, and the Alpha Chapter at Harvard University, October 15, 1851.

In the same year in which the Kappa chapter was established, three others, Delta at South Carolina College, Lambda at Kenyon College, and Omega at Oakland College, Oakland, Miss., were established, all prior to Eta at the University of Virginia, whose charter was dated November 26, 1852.

During all this time, though various chapters were active in forming new organizations, Phi retained the right of granting or refusing charters, though this right was exercised only after consultation with the other "branches." The Fraternity, however, had not remained all these years without a meeting of delegates from the chapters to consult upon measures which were of common interest. Only two years after the Fraternity was organized and while the only chapters outside of Yale were Theta, Xi and Sigma, the Phi chapter passed a resolution, November 14, 1846, as follows:

> "Resolved, that we do consider it expedient to hold a general convention of the fraternities in New Haven, on or beforth the 25th of December next, for the purpose of promoting the more intimate acquaintance between the members of different chapters and to consult upon other interests."

In response to invitations sent out pursuant to this resolution delegates from the other three chapters met in New Haven with the entire Phi chapter on December 23, 1846, the last day of the autumn session at Yale. This was the first D. K. E. convention, so small and of apparently so little importance that no record of its proceeding is available; yet it was the beginning of that great organization which proved a source of strength to the Fraternity for many years. What questions were discussed, what measures were devised for the promotion of the "several interests" of the various chapters, we cannot tell; but apparently the confidence which the other chapters reposed in the wisdom of Phi was great, for it was not until six years later, and until after the Fraternity had spread throughout the South and had planted two chapters in the West, that the second convention was called.

During these years Phi remained supreme, and under the leadership of men like Henry Hitchcock, Theodore Winthrop, Charlton T. Lewis, Stewart L. Woodford, Randall L. Gibson, Wayne Mc Veagh, and many others, was attaining a position of great prominence, not only in the college but throughout the Fraternity. This was the period of the letter writers, and the vaults of such old chapters as Phi, Theta and Sigma all witness to the zeal with which they wrote; while all this work was done with the pen, it was not considered a hardship by any of them to write a closely writen letter of several pages upon any subject of common interest. Nor indeed was the exchange of correspondence between the various chapters confined to letters. Every chapter had its literary programme and the chapter meeting was by no means a thing to be passed over lightly. Subjects of national and legal interest were warmly debated; poems were read; essays upon the most abstruse subjects were written; books were reviewed and criticised; and it was the common practice when a production of special interest was brought before such a meeting, to transcribe the document and send copies of it to Phi and to such of the other chapters as were particularly interested. The letters of the alumni and the records of the various chapters are full of instances of such activity. Perhaps this was characteristic of the ancient idea of education, but there could be no question that it produced brilliant results among the speakers and writers who were developed by the practice and criticism which they received in D. K. E.

The question of holding a convention was often brought up in the correspondence between the chapters, but it was not unitl the Theta chapter, in a letter written by Jas. R. Osgood, Theta '54, urged Phi to call a convention to be held at Brunswick, Maine, during Bowdoin's semi-centennial commencement, September 3-6 1852, that any positive action was taken. The convention met pursuant to call and was probably swallowed by the greater festivities of the semi-centennial; at any rate there are no written records to show what was accomplished at that time; but certainly the work for which it was called was accomplished, and the convention adjourned after passing a resolution to meet with Phi the following summer. "Phi made elaborate preparations for this event, again doomed to be appended to a 'Commencement,'" says Chas. H. Beckett, in his account of "Our Convention Development" (Quarterly, Vol. 11, p. 12). The following notice was forwarded to all the chapters and published in prominent newspapers throughout the country:

> "A convention of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity will be held at the Phi (Parent) Chapter in Yale College, New Haven, Conn., on Tuesday, July 26, 1853. An oration will be delivered by Wm. H. Richards, Esq., of New York City, and a poem pronounced by Charlton T. Lewis, of West Chester, Pa."

Accordingly the Third Convention was called on the morning of the 26th of July, 1853. The chapters were represented by thirty-nine delegates besides a large body of active and graduate members from the Parent Chapter, from the class of '47 down to the then active members, representing Phi, Theta, Upsilon, Zeta, Sigma, Alpha and Lambda. The day passed in the conducting of fraternity business and with great enthusiasm. From the correspondence—all faded and musty now!—of one of the delegates, we may catch a glimpse of what was going on . . . 'it was proposed to establish an annual prize of from $50 to $100, to be awarded to the best writer on any subject selected by a committee, all the essays and poems handed in, are to be submitted to the decision of another committee, . . . thus the door of our intellectual Gymnasium will be thrown open to the members of all the chapters, active and graduate, and by this means also we hope, that in time there may be collected a permanent body of D. K. E. literature.' In the evening the delegates were neither disappointed in the oration by Mr. Richards, Phi '50, nor the poem by Charlton T. Lewis, nor with the banquet that awaited them at the conclusion of their public literary exercises. Evidently, convention organization was here permanently established, as now for the first time we confide in complete data; and this also appears from the circumstance that a committee was ordered to publish the oration and poem.

The Fourth Convention was held at Washington, D. C., January 3, 1855, under the auspices of Phi, Zeta of Princeton, and Eta of Virginia, and was even more successful than the third, both in attendance, the character of the work accomplished, and the brilliancy of its public exercises. No convention was held for many years without public exercises, at which an oration was delivered by some eminent member of the Fraternity, and a poem read. For more than forty years this practice was continued, and there have been many notable productions which first saw light at these gatherings.

The Washington convention was more business-like and entered with greater activity into a consideration of the needs of the Fraternity than any which had preceded it. The organization of the convention, its exact status and authority and the means for calling it together were accurately determined. The obligations of each chapter to the Fraternity and their individual responsibility were fixed, and a method of financial organization of the Fraternity was enacted. One of the subjects of discussion was the establishment of a fraternity magazine. The convention minutes record "Mr. Whitfield (Psi) according to instructions from Psi chapter, presented the following business for the consideration of the convention, (1) the propriety of erecting a monument to Cyprian George Webster, the author of our constitution; (2) the propriety of presenting to the Building Committee of the Washington National Monument Association a block of marble bearing the Greek character representative of our various chapters, and such other of our devices as may be deemed propr, (3) an inquiry relative to the publication of the D. K. E. magazine."

Meantime three strong chapters had been added to the fraternity. At Dartmouth, July 14, 1853, the Pi chapter was instituted. In 1854 Iota at Kentucky Military Institute, and Alpha Alpha (formerly called Alpha Prime) at Middlebury College, were duly chartered. Between the fourth and fifth conventions the Omicron chapter was established at the University of Michigan, Epsilon at Williams College, and Rho at Lafayette College.

It was arranged to hold the Fifth Convention with Eta at Charlottesville, Va., but this was changed and the sessions were held in Washington, January 2, 1856, under the auspices of Eta. Little business of importance was transacted, but the records show a Convention of interest and as might be expected an enjoyable gathering. The names on this record recall those of our Eta Chapter of today; Beverley R. Wellford, Jr., Judge of the Seventh Circuit Court, presiding; John R. Thompson, being the poet, and others whose names are equally well known in the South taking part.

The Sixth Convention met at Providence, R. I. on September 3d and 4th, 1857, and here was inaugurated a conservative policy, and many matters of importance were considered, the Convention being described as "tumultuous" in our annals.

A long roll of chapters had been added between 1856 and 1858, Tau at Hamilton College, Mu at Madison University (Colgate University since May 16, 1890), Nu at the College of the City of New York, Beta Phi at the University of Rochester, Theta Chi at Union College and Kappa Psi at Cumberland University brought the number of chapters up to twenty-eight.

Even before this time the rumblings of the approach of the Civil War were heard in the fraternities. In Eta's minutes of February 11, 1854, the question "Has a state the right to secede peaceably?" was discussed and decided in the negative, showing that the issues which were attracting public attention received due consideration in the Fraternity. From this time on we find indications in the records of the various chapters that the question of secession was frequently discussed.

The next convention, which was held at Bowdoin with the Theta chapter, August 3, 4 and 5, 1858, marks a change in the nomenclature of the conventions which has been a source of considerable confusion in our records. Though it was the seventh convention which had assembled, the fact that it was held in the thirteenth year after the foundation of the Fraternity caused it to be called the Thirteenth Convention, and those held since then have been numbered consecutively from thirteen. Thirteen chapters also were represented when the convention was called to order, and the mystic number seems to have played quite a part in the business of that year. Much business of fraternity importance was considered; various constitutional amendments were proposed, a graduate pin in the form of a scroll was designed, the beautiful D. K. E. march which had been written by Alfred H. Pease,

Lambda '59, was ordered published, and for the first time we find that the troubles of the Alpha chapter at Harvard received the attention of the law-making body of the Fraternity, a subject with which many conventions thereafter were called upon to deal. The orator of the occasion was Anson Burlingame, afterwards Ambassador to China, and the author of the famous treaty which bears his name. That year saw the establishment of two chapters, the Alpha Delta at Jefferson College, Cannonsburg, Pa. and the Tau Delta at Murfreesboro, Tenn.; the Zeta Zeta having been established in 1857 at Centenary College of Louisiana.

The Fourteenth Convention was held in the west under the auspices of the Lambda chapter, at the Masonic Hall in Columbus, Ohio, September 7-9, 1859. Sixteen chapters were represented, and among the delegates we find Whitelaw Reid of Kappa '56, Frank H. Hurd, Lambda '58, and Hon Ozora P. Stearns, Omicron '58.

The Fifteenth Convention was the first one to meet in New York City with the Nu chapter, December 27-28, 1860. The business meetings were held in the Chapter Hall at 554 Broadway, and one hundred and twenty delegates were present. Literary exercises were held at the Church of the Divine Unity, at which Charles P. Chandler, Theta '54, was orator, and Edward S. Rand, Jr., Alpha '55, the poet. The banquet was held uptown at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Dexter A. Hawkins, Theta '58, presiding, and Dr. Edward G. Bartlett, one of our founders, being present and speaking. Here again we find that the question of the war between the north and the south was uppermost in the minds of the people, for a resolution was passed "that it is the unanimous wish of the delegates present that the convention for 1862 shall be held with some southern chapter of the Fraternity." Brother Charles H. Beckett in his address on the "Dekes of the Old South", tells of our record as follows: "They had their wish and many a battlefield, and prison-hell and unknown graves, and all the horrors of a bloody war—was their 'southern convention of 1862.' It is the saddest, sweetest, and the grandest song of our history, that another time and page shall tell. But aside from the individual heroes, who returned not even on their shields, think of that galaxy of glorious chapters that became extinct! Gamma (Vanderbilt), Beta (North Carolina), Delta (South Carolina), Omega, Iota, Zeta Zeta (Centenary), Alpha Delta, Tau Delta, Kappa, and to these may be added Xi and Eta, who, left for dead upon the field, sprang up again to grace our brotherhood."

The Sixteenth Annual Convention did not therefore assemble with the Phi until the 29th and 30th of July, 1862. Fourteen chapters were represented by thirty-nine delegates—all coming from north of Mason and Dixon's line. They met once more to join hands, sing the old songs again, enact the crowning laws of our development and then—the camp, the field and the great gulf swept them in; but before they rushed to cross swords with the D. K. E. of the South, they spoke of their fond associations with Psi, Beta, Eta, Delta, Chi, Kappa, Iota, Omega and Zeta and, one by one re-read their last fond letters to the Parent, breathing all of love and loyalty to D. K. E. and, as one coming through the night answers us from the distance, so they responded, and their response—stand here!—true Northern answer to Southern chivalry.

"Convention of D. K. E.,
Hall of the Phi,
July 30th, 1862.

Dear Brothers,

"The opening of this letter announces to you that the General Convention of our Fraternity is now in session with the parent Chapter.

"When your name was called, no delegate responding, the Secretary of the Convention read the last letter received from you by the Phi Chapter, and in proper order, the latest letters received from our Southern Brothers.

"The sentiment of their letters was unanimous in their attachment to the Fraternity, and in their determination to let no political differences interfere with their devotion to its interests.

"The reading was followed by enthusiastic applause and expressions on every side of the most fraternal feeling for those brothers, from whom the present unhappy strife has separated us, and a committee was immediately appointed to convey to you, as soon as the way should be open, the greetings of the Convention.

"It is necessary to say but little, but we wish you to feel that that little is from the very heart of all the Northern branches of the Fraternity. The Convention deeply regrets that unhappy causes deny us the pleasure of seeing representatives from your Chapter. The differences of opinion, which have led to the division of our Country, ought not to have any influence on those principles, which have so long bound together D. K. E. in happiness and prosperity. Whatever may be the result of the National contest, we trust that our good old Society Union may remain unimpaired. We ask you to resume communication with us, to send delegates to the next Convention, and to cherish with us the hope that we may soon be working together to maintain D. K. E. in her present eminence, and advance her to her proud destiny.

Fraternally yours always,
Henry Holt,
Max F. B. Woodhull, Kappa,
(Miami)."

The story of D. K. E. in the Civil War is difficult to tell. Amid the countless tales of bravery, and devotion, and suffering, and fraternal sympathy and aid, it is hard to select those which are most significant, and to reject those which so adorn the records of our fraternity. No exhaustive history is here possible. We can only weave a garland to hang upon our altar, made up of a few flowers which symbolize the many that are ungathered.

When the war broke out there were upon our rolls, 2,869 members, living and dead. During the war 571 more were initiated. Of these probably fifteen per cent. were dead and more than ten per cent. more were, through age or ill health, incapacitated for service. There are many of whose service in the war we have no report. Yet of the number of whom we have reports, 796 were in the Northern army and 21 in the navy; 724 were in the Southern army and one in the navy; a total of 1,542 in the contending armies. Of those in the Northern armies 6 attained the rank of Major General, 25 of Brigadier General, 48 of Colonel, 76 of Lieutenant Colonel, 93 of Major, 219 of Captain, 199 of 1st Lieutenant, 120 of 2nd Lieutenant, 321 of Staff Officer, 103 of Non-commissioned Officer, while 268 were Privates. In the Southern army we had 2 Major Generals, 6 Brigadier Generals, 50 Colonels, 42 Lieutenant Colonels, 77 Majors, 189 Captains, 145 1st Lieutenants, 27 2nd Lieutenants, 281 Staff Officers, 50 Non-commissioned Officers and 286 Privates. No other fraternity can point to such a record. While Psi Upsilon and Alpha Delta Phi are justly proud of the men whom they gave to the cause, yet their noble record cannot compare with ours. Of the 2,450 members of Psi Upsilon in 1861, 650 were in the Northern and 63 in the Southern armies, while of Alpha Delta Phi's nearly 2,500, 581 fought for the North and 86 for the South. So that with approximately the same membership, D. K. E. had 162 more men in the war than Psi Upsilon and Alpha Delta Phi combined.

Much has been written about the chivalry, the bravery and the sacrifice of the men of the Southern chapters of D. K. E., and too much cannot be told of it. Their homes were invaded. Their altars were violated. The very colleges in which they had their homes were in the path of the invading armies, and almost to a man they sprang to their defense. The brother of Iota who wrote to Beta Phi in May, 1861, "I am the last of thirteen a week ago, and have just been to see three of our band enlist; I am only waiting to finish our chapter correspondence to return and enlist myself," was by no means a solitary example. Yet we must not in our pity and enthusiasm for those who fought a losing fight, forget that equal praise is due to their brothers of the North, who, menaced by no danger to their homes or firesides, sprang unhesitatingly to the defense of their country's flag. They, too, were heroes. They, too, fought without faltering upon many a bloody field. From the time when Theodore Winthrop of Phi fell leading the Northern men in a charge at Great Bethel, till the last Confederate commander, Philip Brent Spence, of Zeta, laid down his arms six weeks after Lee's surrender, there was not a battle of importance in which sons of D. K. E. did not win laurels.

The direct result of the war to D. K. E. as an organization was the closing of thirteen chapters, of whom only six have been revived, and the weakening of all the rest which were then in existence by the draining from them of the blood of many of their best and noblest members. Not a chapter North or South was unrepresented in the war, and there was not a chapter North or South that did not long bear the scars of that terrific conflict. No better example can be shown of the fraternity spirit which animated our brethren in the great conflict, than the poem, written by John Clair Minot, Theta, 98, and today a classic well known at all Deke gatherings.

CHAPTER III

The Reconstructive Period—1865–1881

The period treated of in the last chapter might well be called the period of the hegemony of Phi; although we find the fraternity convention fairly well developed before the close of the period, the will of Phi was nevertheless practically supreme throughout this time. She was a tactful leader, taking no important steps after the first few years without consultation with and the approval of the most of the other chapters. But until the time of the first Washington convention, her will was hardly curbed by any regularly constituted plan of fraternity procedure. She granted or refused charters as to her it seemed best, and in all matters of fraternity government her word was to a great extent final. The Washington convention, however, was the first convention to begin to encroach upon the powers of the parent chapter, and by the close of the war the fraternity government had to a large extent passed over to the convention, which was then the legislative body of the Fraternity.

From this time on fraternity conventions are the mile posts of D. K. E.'s progress, and the history of their work is a fairly accurate history of the growth and development of the Fraternity. The convention not only makes the laws of the whole organization, but it amends and revokes charters, disciplines wayward, weak or erring chapters, and determines the policy of the Fraternity as to most matters which affect its external and internal well-being.

The period of the Civil War was one of chaos in the land, and of something which resembled chaos in the Fraternity also. It is true, conventions were held regularly, one in New York with Nu, December 28-30, 1863, and one in Schenectady, with Theta Chi, July 25-27, 1865, at each of which thirteen chapters were represented; but little business of importance was transacted, and great difficulty was experienced in obtaining men to take part in the public exercises. At the Nineteenth Convention held in Rochester with Beta Phi in April, 1865, only six chapters were represented, but the following resolution, passed with cheers, shows the spirit which actuated the few who remained:

> "Resolved, that we, as a convention, rejoice at the restored political and civil relations of our common government, and that we welcome back with undiminished regard the Southern Chapters of our Fraternity, and earnestly desire and request that they renew their former relations with the Fraternity at the earliest possible moment, and that we extend to them invitations to the next convention at Ann Arbor."

The history of the second period, as shown by the conventions, reveals the struggles of our various chapters to recover from the losses of that war, and to fill up the gaps which it had made in our lines. No other college fraternity had made such sacrifices as ours for the cause of the nation, and for the cause of the South. Many of our men in northern colleges were sons of the South who believed in the justice of their cause, and who hastened to its defense; while a chain of our chapter stretched across the entire Confederacy, and their members, almost to a man, seized arms and were found where the fight was hottest. The Dekes of the North, inspired by the same ardor, were among the first to leap forward at their country's call. So great was the havoc which the war made, that when, at the end, the roll of chapters was called, Gamma, Psi, Delta Kappa Beta, Omega, Eta, Iota, Zeta Zeta, Alpha Delta, Tau Delta, and Kappa Phi were among the missing, and the colleges in which they were situated were for the most part destroyed; while in the North many of the chapters were so depleted that their very existence was problematical.

Just before the outbreak of the war, charters were granted to the Phi Chi chapter at Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J., February 14, 1861, and to Kappa Phi at Troy University, May, 1861, but it was not until the Twentieth Convention, which was held June 20-21, 1866, with the Omicron chapter, that any further charters were granted. At this time an application was received from a body of students at the Indiana Asbury University (De Pauw University since May 5, 1884), as well as from Wesleyan University, Bates College of Maine, and Genesee College at Lima, N. Y. Although only six chapters were represented in this convention, the amount of business transacted renders it a very important one. The petition for a charter at Indiana Asbury was granted, as was also that of Wesleyan University, while a favorable vote was given to Genesee College, but for some unknown reason its charter was not issued until after the institution had been moved to Syracuse, N. Y.

On January 8-9, 1867, a special convention at the call of Phi was held with the mother chapter, at which ten of the Northern chapters were represented, and much time was devoted to the discussion of plans for the strengthening of some of the chapters in the North, and the revival of those in the South wherever possible. An address to the Southern chapters was adopted, urging their members to hasten their reëstablishment, and closing with the following words: "Please accept for yourselves and convey to all our brethren you may meet our sincere wish that all the unpleasant occurrences of the past be buried in oblivion, and that we, one and all, both in the South and in the North, stand shoulder to shoulder, hand joined in hand, in the endeavor to push our loved Fraternity to the acme of glory, and show to all the world our fidelity to our motto, 'Always friends at heart.'" The grant of the charter to Wesleyan University was confirmed by this convention, and a charter given to Washington College of Lexington, Va. (Washington & Lee after April 16, 1871).

The Twenty-first Convention, held at New York with Nu, October 2 and 3, 1867, was essentially a business convention, no public exercises being held. A charter was granted to Psi Omega, at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, and the first written report since the war from a southern chapter, Chi of Mississippi, was received, excusing their absence. The Harvard chapter also received its regular stirring up. Sigma entertained the Twenty-second Convention, October 7 and 8, 1868, sixteen of the twenty active chapters being represented. A charter was granted to Beta Chi of the Western Reserve University, and several applications from other colleges were refused, while the charter of Theta Chi, which, weakened by the loss of members in the Civil War, and unable to held her own at Union College, was withdrawn. The new Cornell University was considered as a favorable site for the establishment of a chapter. Public exercises were held, at which General Francis A. Walker, Sigma '60, presided; an oration was given by Professor Cyrus Northrop, Phi '57, then a professor at Yale, and later president of the University of Minnesota, and a poem by Wm. Sargent Lee, Beta Phi, '61.

A strong conservative spirit had now taken possession of the Fraternity, and while the numerous applications for charters from all over the land testified to the regard in which D. K. E. was held, they were all unhesitatingly rejected, unless the strongest reasons could be adduced for their consideration. At the Twenty-third Convention held with Theta, of Bowdoin, at Brunswick, Me., October 6 and 7, 1869, three such applications were rejected, while a committee consisting of Brothers Sweet and Clark, of Phi, and Sloan, of Beta Phi, were appointed to investigate Cornell, and Phi was authorized to grant a charter to the applicants from that institution, if the report of this committee should be favorable. Their investigations resulted in a favorable report, and the chapter answered to its name when the roll of the next Convention was called.

The Twenty-fourth Convention met with Upsilon, at Providence, November 16, 1870. Twenty-two chapters were here represented. Three applications for charters were rejected by this convention, while reports from the chapters indicated that they had about regained the strength which they had lost by the war; the South, however, was still unrepresented.

At the Twenty-fifth Convention, held with Delta Chi at Ithaca, October 25 and 26, 1871, several names appear upon the roll of delegates, which are familiar now to every member of the Fraternity. Who does not know Samuel F. Hunt, John Bach McMaster and John DeWitt Warner? Brother Hunt had been a delegate to the Eighteenth Convention in 1864, and was at this time acting Lieutenant Governor of Ohio; but Brothers McMaster and Warner were undergraduates, and this was their first appearance at a D. K. E. convention.

Applications from Wabash, Dickinson and Northwestern were rejected, but a charter was granted to the "Mystic Seven," at Syracuse University—the last instance in the history of the Fraternity when a charter was granted at the convention at which the applicants and their college were first considered.

At the Twenty-sixth Convention held in Middletown with Gamma Phi, May 14 and 15, 1873, a formal resolution was passed by the Twenty-seventh Convention, held with Rho, in October, 1873, dropping from the roll of active chapters ten of the chapters that had become dormant from the effects of the war. One of the first steps toward alumni organization was also taken, when a resolution presented by Brothers J. I. Good, of Rho, representing the New York Alumni Association, was unanimously adopted recommending the formation of similar associations in the large cities of the United States, and requesting that meetings of the alumni for such purpose be called by Psi Omega, at Troy; Beta Phi, at Rochester; Delta, at Chicago; Omicron, at Detroit; Theta, at Portland; Beta Chi, at Cleveland; Alpha, at Boston; Eta, at Baltimore, and Lambda, at Cincinnati. In response to this resolution, alumni associations were formed in many cities, and by reason of the renewed interest in Fraternity matters thus aroused, D. K. E. soon had the most thoroughly organized and active alumni of which any Greek Fraternity could boast. At the literary exercises held in the Opera House, Hon. Whitelaw Reid, Kappa, '56, presided, and a most interesting address was given by Hon. Wayne McVeagh, Phi, '53, Minister to Turkey, upon "Constantinople."

For the first time in our history, a convention of D. K. E. was held in "Dixie," on October 14 and 15, 1874, when the Twenty-eighth Convention met with Eta, at Charlottesville, Va. Nineteen chapters were represented and a charter was granted to the Psi Phi Society of Columbia College, which was admitted to the Fraternity under the name of the Beta Chapter, the name of one of the inactive southern chapters. Much confusion resulted from this action when the old Beta was revived, and it was the occasion of no little friction when it was thought necessary to change the name of the Columbia chapter to Gamma Beta.

The charter of Kappa at Miami University was withdrawn, as the financial difficulties of the University had obliged it to close its doors. The traditional Virginia hospitality was not lacking, and the chief feature was the oration of our distinguished honorary member, Ambassador Bayard Taylor, the poet and writer.

Little business of public interest was transacted by the Twenty-ninth Convention, which met at Syracuse with Gamma Phi, October 6 and 7, 1875, much of the time being taken up in the discussion of questions of purely internal management. It was a very enthusiastic meeting, however, and the discussions of purely fraternity matters were at times very warm.

A radical step was taken by the Thirtieth Convention, held with Epsilon, October 4 and 5, 1876, when a charter was granted to applicants from the University of California, who came into the Fraternity as the Theta Zeta chapter. The only interpretation which can be placed upon this action, establishing a chapter at an institution so far removed from all the rest, is that D. K. E. had determined to make good her claim to the title of a national fraternity, and the success of Theta Zeta has fully established the wisdom of such a course.

No work of especial importance was done by the Thirty-first Convention held with Mu at Hamilton, N. Y., October 10 and 11, 1877, as no new charters were granted and no questions of general interest came before it. The Thirty-second Convention held with Gamma Beta of Columbia, at New York, October 23 and 24, 1878, was also chiefly occupied with matters of internal government; a charter was granted to Alpha Chi at Trinity, which was the last new charter granted until 1889, though two of the inactive southern chapters were in the meantime revived.

The Thirty-third Convention held with Pi, of Dartmouth, October 23 and 24, 1879, marked the beginning of the agitation for a stronger centralized executive body for the government of the Fraternity, which resulted two years later in the formation of our Fraternity Council. Brother Frank S. Williams was chairman of a committee of five on Central Organization, and this committee brought forward a plan for a national council of three sections, with headquarters respectively at Boston, New York and Detroit, the first section to consist of the New England States, the second of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia, and the third of all the rest. Each chapter was to have one councillor in its own section, while Phi was to have one in each section. The jurisdiction of this Council was to be quite limited, and for the most part supervisory. The plan was adopted by the convention, conditioned upon its ratification by two-thirds of the chapters, but as this ratification was never given, the scheme was never put into active operation.

The Thirty-fourth Convention, held with Alpha Chi of Trinity College at Hartford, Conn., October 20 and 21, 1880, closed this period.

CHAPTER IV

The Beginning of Centralized Government

This period may be said to begin with the Thirty-fifth Convention, held with the Tau Chapter at Utica, N. Y., October 19 and 20, 1881. Brother Rolfe of Sigma presented the plan for an advisory council, which, after protracted debate, was adopted. It provided for a Council of five alumni residing in or near New York, to be elected by the Convention, and to serve for two years, and a Secretary, to be elected by the Council, to serve during its will. This Council was to have the supervision of the fraternity catalogue and magazine, to receive all applications for charters and report upon them to the conventions, and to lay before the convention each year all matters deemed to be for the best interests of the Fraternity. A fund for the payment of the expenses of the Council was also provided for.

The convention further took action to recall the chapter of Eta Alpha at Washington and Lee University, as that institution had suspended. Measures were also taken to stir up certain other chapters that showed signs of weakness. Phi, Pi, Delta Chi, Sigma and Omicron were elected to choose the members of the new Council.

The Council was organized, with Frank S. Williams, representing Omicron, as its President; John De Witt Warner, of Delta Chi, '72, Secretary; and Dickinson W. Richards, Phi, '80, G. A. Plimpton, Sigma, '76, and Charles H. Beckett, Pi, '81. Their first message to the Fraternity was dated March 15, 1882, and announced as the work which the Council had already mapped out, besides the perfecting of their own organization, the collection of D. K. E. annals, the issuing of a catalogue and magazine, the formation of alumni clubs and various minor matters. They asked that each chapter answer a number of questions relating to its college, its internal affairs, its membership, rites and ceremonies, its financial condition and its relations with other chapters. The message was very comprehensive, and laid out for both the Council and the chapters a large amount of work necessary to put the Fraternity into the best condition.

This message was followed by a second one in May, giving an account of what had already been accomplished and announcing that the Council was endeavoring to form an organization of the Alumni of New York and vicinity. The work of the first year was for the most part preliminary, and prepared the ground for the larger work to be initiated at the next convention, the thirty-sixth.

Providence was the place of meeting of this convention, held with the Upsilon Chapter, October 18 and 19, 1882. The Council, present for the first time, was represented by its President, Brother Williams, and its Secretary, Brother Warner. One or two of the chapters became a little restive when it was learned that the strict letter of the constitution was to be enforced, but the general sentiment was heartily in favor of the new organization, and all soon worked smoothly. The work planned for the convention by the Council included the perfecting of the plan of organization of the Council by various amendments, the adoption of a system of fraternity and chapter heraldry, the extinguishment of chapter debts, the publication of a year book and other matters of internal regulation. All these matters were adopted substantially as planned.

Omicron entertained the Thirty-seventh convention at Ann Arbor, October 17 and 18, 1883. During the preceding year the Council had issued the first volume of the D. K. E. Quarterly, which from the beginning has maintained the same high standard. They had also prepared and published in colors the arms of the Fraternity, had commenced the collection of a fraternity library (including college and fraternity publications), and had made substantial progress upon catalogue work. The principal business brought by them before the convention was the revision of the constitution, which was most creditably accomplished. Numerous applications for charters had been received during the year, but none were reported favorably. A scheme for a Pan-Hellenic conference was reported and referred back to the Council, with power to act. It was also authorized to procure its own incorporation by special legislative act.

The Thirty-eighth Convention was held with Beta Phi at Rochester, November 11 and 12, 1884. No charters were granted, but the subject of uniform badges and matters relating to the organization of the Alumni and purchases of Homes by the Chapters acted on.

Gamma Phi Chapter entertained the Thirty-ninth Convention at Meriden, Conn., October 21 and 22, 1885. Plans were here discussed for the revival of the chapters in the South which had become inactive during the war, and recommendations were made as to reorganization in the universities of North Carolina and Mississippi. Invitations were accepted to visit the Gamma Phi house at Wesleyan, and the D. K. E. house at Yale.

During the year the most noteworthy happenings in the Fraternity were the reorganization of the old Iota Chapter, at Central University, Richmond, Ky., and the organization of the D. K. E. Club of New York, with Charlton T. Lewis, Phi, '53, as President, and with its club house at 36 West 34th Street. This club, which was organized by the Council, was of great service to the Fraternity in providing a solid working organization in New York City, and through its meetings and banquets, in bringing the Fraternity prominently before the public. The plans for the organization of the club were promulgated by Frank S. Williams at a dinner of the New York alumni, held at Delmonico's, February 6, 1885, at which more than three hundred were in attendance, and on May 1st following the club started with a membership of two hundred and fifty. Its success was great from the first, and it was for years an important factor in the progress of our Fraternity.

The new and flourishing Alumni Association of Washington was the host of the Fortieth Convention on January 5 and 6, 1887, and showed what was meant by true southern hospitality.

The chief matter of business considered by this Convention was the revival of old Beta Chapter at the University of North Carolina, which was granted and the old name of the Chapter later restored, the new Chapter at Columbia taking the name of Gamma Beta. The social side of this Convention was memorable and the names of those present included many of our most prominent members, we also having as guests some of the prominent Government Officials.

Not to be outdone by her Washington brethren, the Northwestern Alumni Association asked for the Forty-first Convention, which was held with her at Chicago, October 19 and 20, 1887. During the intervening time, the editor of the Catalogue, one of our most loyal alumni, Brother Henry Van Alen Anderson, Gamma Beta, '84, who had succeeded the first editor, Dr. Ernest H. Lines, Pi, '82, had died after a protracted illness, and the work on the Catalogue had been taken up by Brother George E. Fisher, Beta Phi, '68, who resolved to make it a monumental work in accuracy, in details, in the information given, and in workmanship.

The Forty-second Convention was held in Cincinnati, Ohio, October 24th and 25th, 1888, under the auspices of the Delt Kappa Epsilon Central Club, and was a pleasing affair, but no business of any importance was transacted.

Boston was the meeting-place of the Forty-third Convention, which was held with the New England Alumni Association, October 16 and 17, 1889. This was a convention of much importance to the Fraternity. The chapters were represented by more than one hundred delegates. The first business of importance to come before the convention was that of the relation of Alpha, at Harvard, to the rest of the Fraternity. To a large number of Dekes it had long seemed that a condition of affairs existed there which should no longer be borne. While many of our most loyal alumni were members of that chapter, and while it was the wish of all to respect their feelings, to offer ever opportunity to Alpha to place herself on a par with the others, and to maintain in an institution which all respected as a leader of American colleges, a chapter which would be at the same time an honor to itself, its college and the Fraternity, yet it was felt that the Fraternity was greater than any of its component parts, and that it could not with due regard to its own honor and integrity permit a chapter to exist in such an anomalous state as that of the Alpha of Harvard. Measures were taken to bring the chapter to realize her duties and responsibilities, or, failing in that, to withdraw her charter, but at Alpha's urgent request, in order to give them an opportunity to get into line, and the Council was directed to take the matter into its special charge during the year.

A petition for a revival of Kappa at Miami University was presented by Judge Hunt and Senator Brice, and was granted by the convention, as was also one for a revival of the old Gamma Chapter at Vanderbilt University. A charter was also granted to Phi Epsilon at the University of Minnesota, while the applications of Northwestern University, Swarthmore College and Wabash University were denied, and that of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was postponed.

CHAPTER V

The Close of the Century

With the Forty-fourth Convention, held with the D. K. E. Club of New York, November 13 and 14, 1890, the Fraternity entered upon the last decade of the century, and the second decade of its progress under centralized government.

The matter of the Harvard Chapter was still of great perplexity.

Alpha sent a strong and loyal delegation to the convention. The convention showed a disposition to give Alpha every opportunity to "get into line," and the matter was again referred to the Council, with instructions permitting the retention of the charter under certain conditions which the chapter was required to fulfill. These conditions, however, were not fulfilled, and in the following spring the charter was finally surrendered.

The convention provided against loss of representation at classic Boston by granting a charter to applicants from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who for two years had been knocking at our doors; and under the name of Sigma Tau the new chapter was formally instituted by the Council. Provision was also made for an official and uniform badge, the exclusive sale to be vested in the Council. The banquet at Delmonico's was wildly enthusiastic. Hon. Wager Swayne, Phi, '56, acted as toastmaster, and an ovation was given to Dr. E. B. Shapleigh, one of the founders, who was a speaker. Toasts were also given by Judge Sam F. Hunt, Kappa, '64; Charlton T. Lewis, Phi, '53; Almon Goodwin, Theta, '62, and Judge Henry E. Howland, Phi, '54.

The Cleveland Alumni Association entertained the Forty-fifth Convention, which met at the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, November 11 and 12, 1891. The subject of the Catalogue, which was nearly ready for distribution, occupied much of the time of the meetings. A recommendation was made that the membership of the Council be increased, but it was not adopted. Measures were taken looking toward the publication of a new song book, which even then was much needed by the Fraternity.

At the public exercises, Hon. W. E. Sherwood, Beta Chi, '72, presided, and an address of welcome by Mayor Rose, of Cleveland; a poem by Dr. A. C .Kemper, of Cincinnati, and an address by Judge Sam. F. Hunt, were given. Professor G. C. S. Southworth, Phi, '63, was the toastmaster at the banquet at the Hollenden, and toasts were given by Hon. Clarence Emir Allen, Beta Chi, '77; Hon. Granville P. Hawes, Theta, '60, President of the Council and of the New York Club and Hon. Bryant Walker, Omicron, '76.

The Forty-sixth Convention was held with the Southern Alumni Association at Chattanooga, the sessions being held at the Mountain City Club, but no matter of special interest was transacted.

The Alumni Association of the Northwest entertained the Forty-seventh Convention at Minneapolis, October 12 and 13, 1893. It being the year of the World's Fair, an informal reception was given by the Chicago Association at the Grand Pacific Hotel on Monday evening, and many of those who were passing through Chicago were present.

The application for the revival of Delta Delta Chapter at the University of Chicago was granted, and the Constitution was amended, increasing the requirements for granting charters for new chapters, and an application for the revival of Theta at Union was referred to the Council for investigation. The convention closed with a banquet on Friday evening.

Fifty years old! And what a record of progress the Semi-Centennial Convention, held with the Council in New York, Nov. 14-16, 1894, had to celebrate! No rival could show such a roll of honors was ours. In literature, in science, and in education she was the equal of the best of those other fraternities, to whom the march of years had naturally brought many honors in those departments of life. But in the record of patriotism during the trying times of the Civil War, there was no one who approached her; and when the noise of conflict had ceased, and the problems produced remained to be solved by our legislatures, it was then that D. K. E. took the high place, which she has always since maintained. No wonder, then, that when the Convention was called to order at Sherry's, on November 15th, it found the greatest attendance of delegates in our history to that time.

The presidency naturally went to Phi, and Brother H. W. Hyde was duly elected to that office. The report of the Council showed that the Fraternity was in unusually good condition, being free from debt and with many of the chapters in their own houses. The principal business of the Convention related to the revival of Theta Chi at Union, which was denied and the distribution of the unsold catalogues.

Its social side was a most pronounced success. There was a reception on Wednesday evening at the D. K. E. Club, 435 Fifth Avenue, where the presence of Dr. Wm. Boyd Jacobs, our only living founder, was the occasion of great rejoicing. A beautiful loving-cup of silver, made by Tiffany, was presented to him at this convention, a description of which, together with an excellent account of the convention, appears in Vol. XIII, No. 1, of the Quarterly. On Thursday the literary exercises were held at Sherry's. Hon. Charles S. Fairchild, Alpha '63, presided. A history of the Fraternity, "The Story of D. K. E.," was read by Hon. John De Witt Warner, Delta Chi, '72, which is one of the Fraternity's classics, as is also the oration of Hon. Samuel F. Hunt, Kappa, '64. Together they form a most masterly history of D. K. E. and an exposition of her object and aims. Charlton T. Lewis, Phi, '63, was the toastmaster at the banquet on Friday evening, and it was a feast of wit, eloquence and goodfellowship.

Numerous smaller receptions and dinners were given by the Club, the Nu and Gamma Beta Chapters and others, while many of the delegates closed the festivities by accepting Phi's invitation and going down on Saturday to pay their vows at the shrine of the old mother chapter.

Syracuse was the place of meeting of the Forty-ninth Convention, which assembled in the Yates Hotel, November 14, 1895. There was little business of interest to the public for this Convention to act upon, the question of most general interest perhaps being the consideration of a movement which had been started at Oxford University in England to obtain a charter from D. K. E. for the establishment of a chapter there. The question naturally provoked much discussion, with the result that the general sentiment of the convention seemed to be that the time was not ripe for extending the Fraternity beyond the American continent.

The Gamma Chapter secured the Fiftieth Convention which was held at Nashville, Tenn., November 12 and 13, 1896, at which no busniess of special importance was transacted.

The Fifty-first Convention was held with the Delta Delta Chapter and the Northwestern Alumni Association in Chicago, November 23 and 24, 1897, at which a new official badge was decided on and several applications considered, but no charters granted or other business transacted.

The Fifty-second Convention was held November 17 and 18, 1898, with the Omicron Chapter and the Detroit Alumni Association, or as it is legally known the Omicron Literary Association. Of chief importance was the granting of a charter to applicants from the University of Toronto and by this act the Fraternity accepted the policy of extension beyond the limits of the United States, and established our character as an International Fraternity. The social events of this Convention were of great interest, as have been all the far-famed Conventions held in Detroit.

The last Convention of the Century, the Fifty-third, was held with the Sigma Chapter at Springfield, Mass., November 16 and 17, 1899, when a Chapter was established at the University of Pennsylvania and installed December 9, 1899, as the Delta Kappa Chapter, at which ceremony Wm. Boyd Jacobs, the last surviving founder of the Fraternity, attended and made his last public appearance shortly before his death.

CHAPTER VI

The Opening of the Twentieth Century

The Fifty-fourth Convention was held with the Upsilon Chapter at Providence, R. I., November 14 to 16, 1900 and was marked by the appearance of both a new catalogue and song book, publications greatly needed and which were received with marked favor. The chief business of the Convention was the granting of a Charter to McGill University at Montreal, Canada, which was installed January 12, 1901, as the Tau Alpha Chapter.

The Washington Alumni Association entertained the Fifty-fifth Convention December 11 to 13, 1901. Headquarters were at the New Willard and as always in Washington this was a Convention of great social interest and attended by many of our most prominent members. The flag of D. K. E. was planted on another outpost of the Pacific Coast on February 28, 1902, when the Sigma Rho Chapter at Leland Stanford, Jr. University was installed under the Charter given by this Convention.

The Fifty-sixth Convention met with the Memphis Alumni Association and the Chi Chapter at Memphis, Tenn., November 13 and 14, 1902, but no business of import was transacted.

The college year was marked by the death of four veterans of the Fraternity who had been numbered among her most loyal alumni, General Wager Swayne, Phi, '56; Hon. Josiah H. Drummond, Psi, '46; Judge Wm. M. Rumsey, Epsilon, '66, and Hon. Wilson S. Bissel, Phi, '69, Postmaster General under President Cleveland. The year marked also a change in the fraternities at Yale, by which the Junior Societies, D. K. E. Psi Upsilon, and Alpha Delta Phi, changed their organization so that instead of being merely Junior or upper class societies, they now elected members at the beginning of the Sophomore year, and gave three years of fraternity life with active membership from the three upper classes. The change was a radical one and its results have been of great benefit to the fraternities.

Syracuse entertained the Fifty-seventh Conventin which met with the Central New York Association, and Phi Gamma Chapter, November 11-14, 1903.

The applications of the University of Washington and the University of Texas, which had been referred to the Council by the last convention, were disapproved.

On January 30, 1904, at a meeting held at the University Club in New York, the D. K. E. Association of New York was organized to take the place, as far as an association could, of the old club. Whitelaw Reid was elected president, Charlton T. Lewis, Col. John J. McCook, Dr. John P. Munn and Frederick B. Jennings, vice-presidents; Jas. Anderson Hawes, secretary, and Walter B. Safford, treasurer. The new Association made its bow to the Fraternity at a dinner at Delmonico's on April 15th, which was a great success. Charlton T. Lewis made his last appearance in the Fraternity, acting as toastmaster on that occasion, only a little more than a month before his death. Among the speakers were Robt. E. Peary, Chas. F. Mathewson, Hon. Edw. M. Grout, and Col. John J. McCook. This was the first of a series of public dinners of great importance to the Fraternity which were held under the auspices of this Association.

The Fifty-eighth Convention met in Chicago November 17 and 18, 1904, under the auspices of Delta Delta Chapter and the Northwestern Association. A Charter was granted to the University of Illinois and the Delta Pi Chapter was installed on December 17, 1904.

The recently organized New York Alumni Association of D. K. E., with the Nu and Gamma Beta Chapters, entertained the Fifty-ninth Convention at the Waldorf Astoria, November 8 to 10, 1905. As usual in New York the attendance was very large, the social events of great interest and a large number of representative men from all parts of the country and great numbers of undergraduates attended.

The Sixtieth Convention met at the Cooley House, Springfield, Mass., November 14 to 16, 1906, with the Sigma and Epsilon Chapters. A Charter was granted to the University of Wisconsin and installed as the Rho Delta Chapter on December 22, 1906. Several other applications were received, but were not granted and at this Convention the first steps were taken toward the radical changes and reorganization of the Fraternity which were formally acted on by the Detroit Convention two years later. A committee of seven undergraduates from as many different Chapters were appointed to consider the general fraternity situation and in what respects D. K. E. might be further strengthened.

On January 16, 1907, the New York D. K. E. Association tendered a congratulatory dinner to Robert E. Peary, Theta, '77, who had carried with him to the point farthest north yet reached by man the D. K. E. flag presented to him by the Northwestern Association in Chicago, before he set out on his dash for the pole. While he was the star of the occasion, the honors were shared also with Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, who, being home from England on a vacation, was present at the dinner. Hon. George C. Holt, Phi, '67, acted as toastmaster. Commander Peary gave a most interesting account of his journey, in which, though he failed to reach the pole, he penetrated the icy regions further than man had ever been before. Responses were made also by Gen. Horace E. Porter, Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., Phi, '96, Hon. Whitelaw Reid and Col. John J. McCook and a new flag was presented to him to be taken on the trip on which he was just starting, and on which he finally succeeded in his life long effort.

The Sixty-first Convention met at the Seelbach Hotel, Louisville, Ky., November 13-15, 1907, under the auspices of the Iota and Gamma Chapters. No business of importance, except in matters of fraternity routine, was transacted, and no charters were granted, though a number of applications had been received.

On February 20, 1908, the New York Alumni Association gave a dinner to the Dekes of the old South at Delmonico's. Among the representatives of the old South present were two veterans, Dr. Geo. Tucker Harrison, Eta, '55, and Capt. Hugh R. Garden, Delta, '60. It was a touching exhibition of the hold which the Fraternity has upon all its members, from the youngest to the oldest. Frederick B. Jennings, Epsilon '72, the president of the association, acted as toastmaster. The response of Judge Chas. H. Beckett. Pi '81, to "The Dekes of the Old South," was an address of such eloquence, earnestness and pathos that it has become one of the fraternity classics. The reminiscences of Dr. Harrison and Capt. Garden, as well as the ringing speech of Dr. St. Clair Hester, Beta, '88, on the New South, made this one of the most memorable occasions in the history of D. K. E. in New York City.

The Sixty-second Convention will go down in history. It was an innovation from the fact that it was held at three different places. It surpassed all precedents in point of numbers, and was one of the most enthusiastic and successful ever held. It started in New Haven on November 11, 1908, continued at Hartford, November 12 and 13, and finished at New York, November 13. The hosts at New Haven and Hartford were Phi and Alpha Chi, and at New York, the New York Alumni Association in conjunction with those two chapters. A special car from New York brought about fifty alumni on Wednesday afternoon to join the undergraduates already assembled at the Phi Chapter House in New Haven in a smoker, where the enthusiasm began. After midnight the entire party went to Hartford, which they reached at 3 o'clock Thursday morning.

The dinner on Friday evening at the Waldorf-Astoria was the greatest one in the history of the Fraternity. Nearly eight hundred were present, five hundred of whom were alumni. The Waldorf-Astoria had never seen such a gathering of college men, and no one who attended this dinner will ever forget it. Judge Vernon M. Davis, Nu, '76, presided. Regrets were read from President Roosevelt, Alpha, '80; Ambassador Reid, Kappa, '56; Secretary of the Navy Metcalf, Phi, '76; Solicitor-General Henry M. Hoyt, Phi, '74, and U. S. Senators Lodge, Alpha, '71, and Beveridge, Psi Phi, '85, and also an interesting letter from President Taft, whose brothers are Dekes. Responses were made by Senator Frank B. Brandegee, Phi, '85, of Connecticut; Judge Beckett, Pi, '81, of New York; Rev. Karl G. Reiland, Alpha Chi, '97; Chas. F. Mathewson, Pi '82, and Dr. St. Clair Hester, Beta, '88, representing the Council.

The Sixty-third Convention was held with the Delta Kappa Chapter, November 10-12, 1909, at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the chapter. The new system of equalization of delegates' expenses was tried for the first time and worked to perfection, every chapter of the Fraternity being represented. In order to increase the representative character of the Council and to provide for more freqeunt representation of the various chapters, the number of councillors was increased to nine by constitutional amendment, and the conservative character of the Fraternity was emphasized by another amendment which rendered necessary affirmative action by two successive conventions in order that a charter may be granted for a new chapter.

The most important event of the year was the dinner tendered to Commander Robt. E. Peary, Theta, '77, in commemoration of his discovery of the north pole, and of his planting thereon along with the flag of his country, a flag of D. K. E. The great ball room of the Hotel Astor was crowded by more than seven hundred alumni. A loving-cup was presented to Commander Peary by the association, and a very loyal response was given. Hon. A. Barton Hepburn presided, and Commander Peary gave a most interesting account of his journey to the pole, exhibiting pictures which showed in the most graphic way the hardships which he was obliged to encounter, and the difficulties which had to be overcome. On the wall opposite the speakers' table hung the D. K. E. flag which had been presented to Commander Peary by the association before his departure, and which he had carried with him to the pole. Toasts were also responded to by Admiral Murdock; Dr. Alfred E. Burton, Theta, '77, Dean of Massachusetts School of Technology, who was a classmate of Commander Peary's in college; Hon. Norris G. Osborn, Phi, '80; and Capt. Ted Coy of Phi and the Yale Football team, 1909.

The Present Period

The Sixty-fourth Convention held at Detroit, Michigan, on November 16 to 18, 1910, ushered in a new period in the history of the Fraternity.

It seems as if our history from the aspect of the system of organization, falls into three periods. The first period lasted until shortly after the Civil War and consisted of the government of the general Fraternity by the Mother Chapter. Most of the conventions during our early history were held in New Haven and the Phi Chapter held the veto power over all acts of importance, such as granting charters, and practically controlled the entire policy and the affairs of the Fraternity. As the number of Chapters increased the position and influence of other Chapters developed and it became evident that this original system could not continue. The second period in our history was that of sole control by the Convention, but the results of this short period showed its weaknesses, and the third period soon opened with the organization of the Advisory Alumni Council, later incorporated as the Council of Delta Kappa Epsilon. The first few years after the organization of the Council and the beginning of Alumni leadership in Fraternity affairs was rather a stormy period but one of general progress in the Fraternity. The small Council of seven members, one member always remaining from Phi and three of the other members going off each year, met all the requirements of our organization for some years. However, several years ago, the feeling began to arise that this small Council was not truly democratic or representative, and during thirty years the actual work of the Fraternity was largely conducted by three or four Chapters located in or near New York City. The addition and increase in strength of Chapters in the Central West and other parts of the country, and the rapid development of organization in other fraternities, with their General and Travelling Secretaries, Clubs and Endowments, all looking toward a strong central leadership and government, caused the feeling to steadily grow that D. K. E. was perhaps not keeping up with the trend of modern development in fraternity and college life. This resulted at the Springfield Convention of 1906 in the passing of a resolution to appoint a Committee of seven undergraduates to consider this question. This Committee on Fraternity Conditions consisted of then undergraduate members from Theta, Phi, Gamma Beta, Beta and Delta Delta, and it brought in a short preliminary report to the Convention of 1909 at Philadelphia, advising that the membership of the Council be enlarged, more stringent requirements relating to the granting of new Chapters be adopted and that the condition of all Chapters be investigated for further report. At the Convention of 1910 at Detroit this Committee submitted a lengthy printed report recommending that an entirely new Fraternity Constitution be prepared, following in part the plans recently adopted by other fraternities for their larger development; that the office of General or Travelling Secretary be instituted and that three Chapters be investigated because of conditions the Committee considered not to be to the best interest of those Chapters or of the Fraternity. This report naturally aroused both interest and feeling, and it was realized by all that a turning point in the history of the Fraternity had been reached and that the old question of a strong central government, as distinguished from unlimited local Chapter control, as well as the extending of the participation of the Alumni in affairs of the Fraternity, were both questions clearly before the Fraternity.

For three days these matters were argued at great length with the final result that the recommendations of the undergraduate Committee on Fraternity Conditions were adopted, and the Council was instructed to begin the work of the revision of the Constitution and the office of General Fraternity Secretary was instituted. Up to this time the Secretary of the Council had attended to the duties of that body and had acted as Treasurer of the Council, but had not carried out the larger scope of work conducted in several other fraternities by the General or the Travelling Secretary among the Chapters. The position was created on a salary basis and the officer was appointed to act as general executive of all detail work heretofore under the charge of a number of volunteer workers. Brother David B. Simpson, Rho, who had acted as Secretary of the Council with devotion and ability for over twenty years, declined this position and Brother James Anderson Hawes, Phi, '94, then representative on the Council for Phi and Secretary of the New York Alumni Association, was elected as the first General Fraternity Secretary.

The same Convention also adopted a new regulation pin, increased slightly the Chapter taxes and extended a formal invitation to all Alumni to take a more active part and leadership in the affairs of the Fraternity. Further, as a result of the investigation of the Council of several applications, a Charter was granted to the Druid Society of the University of Washington and early in the year it became our Kappa Epsilon Chapter at the great and growing institution in Seattle. We may here mention the success which has followed this new Chapter and especially the remarkable spirit shown by the D. K. E. Alumni from all Chapters residing in the State of Washington as it is probably the only case on record where, without a single Alumnus member, a new Chapter has been enabled, within three years from receiving its Charter to take possession of a $35,000 house, built entirely by the loyal members of other and distant Chapters.

During that winter an unusual dinner was given by the New York Alumni Association at the Plaza Hotel in honor of our Fellow Member, His Excellency Liang Tun Yen, Phi '82, President of the Board of Foreign Affairs in China and later the last Prime Minister of the Chinese Empire. Brother Yen appeared in his official robes and in perfect English told of his experiences at Yale College and in the Fraternity as well as some interesting stories of Dekes he had since met in China, including Brother J. K. Ohl, and others who are well known in our Fraternity history. Brothers Charles H. Sherrill, Phi '89, just appointed United States Minister to the Argentine Republic, and the venerable Dean Henry Park Wright, Phi '68, beloved of all Yale men, were the other guests of the evening. Brother Julian W. Curtiss, Phi '79, President of the Association, presided and a beautiful silver loving cup was presented to Brother Wright in memory of the many kind acts he had done for Dekes at Yale and his long-continued interest in the Fraternity.

During January, the Council removed from the small room occupied for some years at 1135 Broadway to larger quarters at 30 Broad Street and there established the General Headquarters and business offices of the Fraternity, with the General Secretary and an assistant in charge. The new Council, increased by action of the last Convention to nine members, undertook the reorganization of the Fraternity directed by the Convention and elected Brother Charles F. Mathewson, Pi '82, as President and Brother Hawes as Secretary and Treasurer of the Council, in place of Brother Simpson who resigned as such officer. Brother Aldice G. Warren, Beta Phi, who had been Editor of the last Catalogue and the Song Book and had been appointed Permanent Editor of the Fraternity, also retired as his work was completed. Changes were likewise made in the management of the Quarterly, Brother Jesse Grant Roe, Rho '87, becoming Associate Editor with the General Secretary, and the following year retiring from the position of Editor which he had so capably filled for many years. The Quarterly was changed in size, scope and contents and the General Secretary undertook the work of increasing the subscriptions and the influence of the paper. In the course of the following three years the subscription list was increased tenfold; however, there is still room for improvement and the Quarterly should be taken by many more Alumni than even today as it is the only means we have of keeping up the interest and connection of our widely scattered alumni members with their Chapter, College and Fraternity.

During this winter the General Secretary took the first long official trip ever taken by any officer of the Fraternity, spending nearly two months visiting the Chapters in the South and the Central West. During the Spring he took another trip visiting the Chapters in New England and several Alumni Associations. In the course of the past few years the General Secretary has visited from one to three times every Chapter in the Fraternity and has attended Alumni dinners in all parts of the country. The Assistant or Travelling Secretary has also visited a number of Chapters and in this way the Council and its officers are made acquainted with the living conditions of our undergraduate members at all Chapters, or are in position to secure such information as may be desired. This is in line with the similar endeavor of several other Fraternities and has been one of the most important elements in the organization of our Fraternity and especially in the effort to bring together in one body in feeling, the Council, our undergraduate members and our Alumni as organized in their various Associations throughout the country.

The new Council at once took up the work of revising the Constitution according to the requirements of modern fraternity development and devoted a considerable amount of time to the consideration of the conditions of the three Chapters referred to the Council by the Convention.

Also during this winter, the attention of this and other fraternities was called to the rapidly growing hostility to fraternities at the state universities of the South and West. The situation at Wisconsin and several other great institutions where we have Chapters caused much concern and showed the necessity of a strong central organization if we were to protect our large and growing interests against social and political attacks such as we have been obliged to meet at several universities the past few years.

This year of 1911 was not only a turning-point and a historic year in D. K. E. but it likewise stands out in the history of several other fraternities, and indeed of all, because of the organization of the Inter-Fraternity Conference, which had its inception the preceding year. In this movement D. K. E. had a part. Brother Hawes was a member of the Organization Committee and for years has taken a leading part in its councils. Every Fraternity in the country has joined this Conference, which has no legislative authority but represents the united influence of all the forty-five recognized fraternities of the land and at the meeting held in New York at Thanksgiving consider matters of importance to all fraternities and the student life of our American Colleges.

The Sixty-fifth Convention held at the Blackstone Hotel, Chicago, on the 7th, 8th and 9th of December, 1911, was of equal importance in the history of the Fraternity to that held the preceding year. The change of date from October or November, at which time our Conventions had been held for several years, proved popular as football season was concluded and there were fewer college interests. There was a large attendance at this Convention, not only of delegates and of those who usually attend Conventions, but of the general alumni body from various parts of the country.

The result of this Convention was that in a general way the action of the Detroit Convention and the beginning of our more progressive policy was approved and the final report of the Committee on Fraternity Conditions advising the revision of our system of government was formally adopted. However, no final action was taken on any of these questions, all of which were discussed both on the floor of the Convention, and in many conferences during the week, with the result that when the Convention closed many of the older Alumni had been brought to see that the changes desired by the younger element were inevitable and the many friendships formed paved the way for the coming solidarity of the entire Fraternity. Hearings on the lengthy report of the council on the investigation of three chapters were held, resulting in withdrawing any further question as to one and postponing action as to the other two concerned for a year.

Applications for new Chapters were strongly presented by the Emanon Club at the University of Indiana, the Capitol Club at the University of Texas and the Friars Club at Louisiana State University but none were granted, although these applications were placed in a special class for consideration at the next Convention.

An affecting incident of historic importance was the surrender of the Charter of our Chi Chapter at the University of Mississippi, because of State and University laws. Agitation against fraternities was rampant that year in many states and the radical party, having secured control of the State of Mississippi, passed most stringent laws against fraternities at the State University. The old Charter granted by Phi long before the Civil War was surrendered to the Convention by the delegate of Chi with an affecting speech which brought tears to the eyes of many. This was the same Charter around which the boys gathered in the Chapter meeting of Chi, held at the outbreak of the Civil War, when the meeting itself was not concluded but simply adjourned. Every member of the Chapter went to the front in a D. K. E. Company at the outbreak of the war and the great majority gave their lives for what they considered the right. The old Charter was buried in a tin box in the woods near the University and was found there intact and laid on the table when the same meeting was called to order and few of the number first present answered to their names when called, although every member living was present. This stained but still legible Charter, in the same tin box, now rests in the safe of the Council as one of our most valued historic documents.

It is needless to say that the social aspects of this Convention were most enjoyable since they were held at the Blackstone Hotel under the auspices of Brother Tracy C. Drake.

During the following winter the Council and General Secretary developed the work at the Central Office in its details, prepared a uniform system of bookkeeping and accounts for the different Chapters, provided blanks for new members in order to keep the Central Organization fully informed, started the work for the preparation of a new Song Book, Catalogue and Ritual, and devoted much time to the revision of the Constitution and other matters entrusted to the Council by the last two Conventions. Anti-Fraternity legislation was rife again that year but began to wane and the total result of this three or four years agitation against fraternities was only to abolish these organizations at Mississippi and two or three sectarian colleges in the South and Central West, D. K. E. not being affected in any place other than Mississippi, and the entire movement is now considered moribund, for the present at least.

In December the Fraternity suffered a great loss in the death of our distinguished and loyal Brother Whitelaw Reid, Kappa, '56, then Ambassador to Great Britain. The funeral at the great, new Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York, was a very impressive ceremony with personal representatives of the King of England, the Governor-General of Canada and many of the highest political, military and naval officials of this and other countries in attendance. The large floral tribute from Delta Kappa Epsilon, in the colors of the Fraternity, was given one of the two chief places of honor in the centre of the Chancel and the officers of the Fraternity were accorded a prominent place as a token of the love and sentiment Brother Reid had for his old College Fraternity.

This year also brought a new honor to the Fraternity in the election of Brother Mario Garcia Menocal, Delta, '88, as President of the Republic of Cuba. Brother Menocal has always shown an active interest in his Chapter and Fraternity affairs and many a Deke, when visiting Cuba, has been shown great courtesy by the President. It is hoped that some time in the near future, after the end of this War, the Fraternity may be able to accept the courtesies offered and hold a Convention in Cuba at the official invitation of the President. Since Brother Theodore Roosevelt retired as President of the United States we have only Brother Menocal as a Chief Executive, but wish him many years of continued success in the leadership of his people and await other future honors for our younger members.

During the winter of 1912 there were several interesting and important alumni gatherings at Boston, New York and elsewhere and the contributions by Brother John De Witt Warner and others, to the general history of fraternity student societies appearing in the Quarterly received general attention in the Fraternity World. An important dinner was also held in Washington in honor of Brother Viscount Suti Ki Chinda, Psi Phi, '81, the new Imperial Japanese Ambassador, whose interest in his Fraternity and College has always been maintained while holding the many positions of trust and honor he has enjoyed. During the next summer the first attempt was made to prepare an exact Roll of Honor of all those members of our Fraternity who have especially distinguished themselves in public life, literature and the professions. D. K. E. was also worthily represented at the great Olympic Games at Stockholm with seven members, including men who made world records, such as Brothers Meredith, Lippincott and Craig.

The Sixty-sixth Convention was the third important Convention during this period and was held with the Alumni Association at Memphis, Tenn., December, 1912. For the first time the Council Office arranged for an entire special train from New York and this venture, a novel departure for a fraternity, proved a great success and added to the enjoyment of the large number of delegates from all the northern and western Chapters, who availed themselves of this opportunity. This Convention took up all the unfinished business of the Convention of the year before and those who attended will always remember the earnest hard work devoted to the affairs of the Fraternity by the delegates, the representatives of the Council and other alumni, and especially the brilliant leadership of Brother Charles F. Mathewson, President of the Council. A considerable portion of the new Constitution was adopted as submitted by the Council, more especially that of enlarging the former small Council so that every active Chapter should always be represented by a member, and the regular meetings constitute practically quarterly conventions of the alumni. The office of the President of the Council was changed so that this officer should be known as President of Delta Kappa Epsilon and recognition given of the closer union in fraternity work of the alumni and chapter. Brother Hawes was re-elected General Fraternity Secretary, this being the only position filled by the annual conventions under the constitution, the council electing the other officers.

Several applications were presented and as the last Chapter granted under the former procedure, a Charter was given to the Capitol Club at the University of Texas, for which the alumni residing in that State had worked for many years and through the activity of Brother Marvin H. Brown, Chi, '02, brought to a successful conclusion. This chapter was installed the following winter as the Omega Chi Chapter and as the only Chapter, except those on the Pacific Coast, west of the Mississippi River, it is expected will be a centre of D. K. E. interest for a great section of the land. The charges against the two chapters held over from the last convention were finally dismissed.

After a year of work on matters of organization at the council office, attention to conditions with the chapters and other aspects of our Fraternity growth, the Sixty-seventh Convention was held at the Hotel Somerset in Boston, December 3, 4, and 5, 1913, with the New England Alumni Association and Sigma Tau Chapter. It was the first time that the Convention had been held in Boston since 1889 and the second time in the history of our Fraternity. In point of attendance it was one of the largest gatherings of Dekes on record, following two Conventions held in New York, with an attendance of over 600 at the banquet. As has been the case in recent years, every one of the active Chapters were represented throughout the three days by undergraduate delegates and alternates and the "Old Guard," who had attended Conventions of the Fraternity for many years past, all remarked the spirit of earnestness and attention to business shown at this and the preceding Convention. The record shows that the roll calls and votes taken, numbering nearly 40, were responded to in every case by the representative of every Chapter throughout the three days.

This Convention was memorable as one devoted almost exclusively to the earnest consideration of the long and carefully drawn legal document prepared by several prominent lawyers on the Council for our new Fraternity Constitution. This was considered section by section for two days and every aspect of Fraternity organization was given the most carefnl attention by the delegates and large number of alumni present. The Council, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York in 1884, was brought into legal relation with the General Fraternity as represented by the Chapters at Conventions, and new provisions making more stringent the granting of new charters and safe-guarding investigations and withdrawal of charters were adopted. In some ways the most important action was the specific recognition of the fact that Delta Kappa Epsilon is an organization in which membership does not terminate when one leaves college, but continues throughout life, and the addition of this view to the oath taken when members are first initiated imposes the legal as well as moral obligation on every member to promote the interests of the Fraternity, the Chapter and the Chapter Alumni Association he then joins throughout his life. This laid the foundation for the future organization of the alumni and the compulsory support expected from members after leaving college. Brother Charles F. Mathewson, Pi, President of the Council, had charge of this legislation on the floor of the Convention for two days and under his leadership delegates and alumni concluded their labors satisfactorily to all.

The Sixty-eighth gathering of the Fraternity, under the new Constitution referred to as the "Annual Stated Convention of Delta Kappa Epsilon," was held at the Hotel Gruenwald, New Orleans, La., on December 2d to 5th, 1914, under the auspices of the Southern Alumni Association and the Tau Lambda Chapter. This was the first time we had ever held a Convention in New Orleans and the only time when any Convention has ever been held in the south except at Memphis and Charlottesville. This fact helped to stimulate interest in our older alumni in this section, to which end the Officers of the Council had devoted much time and interest and for which reason the General Secretary had given more time and made more visits than to any other part of the country. D. K. E. was the first general Fraternity to enter the south and before the Civil War our southern Chapters composed a large portion of the Fraternity. The Civil War closed all our southern Chapters but that of Eta, and the breach of years naturally caused a waning of interest and sympathy between the older men of the generation of before the war and the young men of the Chapters re-established. This Convention accomplished much in this regard and was voted to be one of the most enjoyable ever held. Special cars carried the delegates and others from New York and Chicago, the New York train stopping over for the day at Charlottesville to visit the newly opened Chapter House.

While the attendance of this Convention did not compare in numbers with those held in the large northern cities, it was an earnest and harmonious gathering presided over by Charles Hann, Jr., Gamma Beta, '16. The chief question was one of Fraternity and Council finances and as to what action should be taken in regard to the plan for organization of Chapter alumni associations and regular taxation of the Alumni for the support of the Fraternity. The present hat band was adopted. Because of the inability of Brother Hepburn to attend the Convention, Brother Herbert Hartwell Gibbs, Mu, 84, Vice-President, represented the Council, Brother James Anderson Hawes being re-elected General Fraternity Secretary.

During the following winter further progress was made in the organization of the Council and with the Chapters, and statistics brought out the remarkable record of D. K. E. in athletics and other branches of student interest. The General Secretary made several trips to different sections of the country and because of the continued increasing business carried on at the central office and the necessity of keeping in as close touch as possible with the affairs of active chapters, the position of Assistant to the General Secretary was changed, and to that title was added Travelling Secretary, as a title for the younger men, whom from time to time, were selected by the Council, to assist in general fraternity work.

During the winter of 1915 the organization of the enlarged Council was effected and for the first time our new fraternity machinery was well under way. Brother A. Barton Hepburn, Alpha Alpha '71, our distinguished financier, formerly Comptroller of the United States Treasury and then President of the Chase National Bank of New York, succeeded as President of the Fraternity, Brother Charles F. Mathewson, who for so many years past had shown such devoted loyalty and given so unsparingly of his valuable time. Under the guidance of Brother Hepburn, the new Council organization was perfected and the Fraternity entered on a year of restored harmony and one of unusual material progress and prosperity.

During this winter plans were made by the General Secretary and the Council Office for the "Great Deke Swing Around the Circle," the trip to the California Convention to be held the succeeding summer. Also the question of a National Headquarters and New York Club became prominent and the Council having acted favorably took up the matter in a definite way. The Great War on the other side now began more and more to centre the attention of all Dekes and was brought home to the Fraternity by the magnificent record of our Tau Alpha and Alpha Phi Chapters in Canada. Members of several of our American Chapters also began to figure in the war, driving ambulances and taking active part in the Armies of France or England. Even at this time the Fraternity began to take an active interest in military preparedness in this Country and the General Secretary and his Assistant brought the matter to the attention of the Chapters on their visits.

During this winter the Fraternity suffered a great loss in the sudden and untimely death of Brother Charles F. Mathewson, Pi '82, whose work for the Fraternity has been so often referred to in this history. Little can be here added except to say that to such men as Brother Mathewson does Delta Kappa Epsilon owe its present position and he will always be held in loving memory by all loyal Dekes.

A volume would be required to tell of the great Deke trip in a special train to California during the summer of 1915. Over one hundred undergraduates and alumni travelled nearly 9,000 miles by train and several hundred miles by boat and automobile in this long and wonderful journey from New York around the continent. Entertainments were enjoyed at such Deke centers as Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Minneapolis, while at every other point visited the few Dekes in that section met the visiting members and renewed their old fraternity interests. The visits to the Grand Canyon and the trip through beautiful Glacier National Park will always live in the memory of those fortunate enough to have taken this trip. Brothers Hawes and Goodspeed had the trip in charge and conducted this large number of young and older Brothers safely back to their respective homes after an experience which seldom comes in a life time. Some other fraternities had a car the whole or part of the way, but we believe that no fraternity ever carried through a similar undertaking with such success. Had it not been for the Great War it was planned to offer similar trips to the Fraternity during the coming summers or to establish a Deke Camp, because of the success on this trip of bringing together men from all the Chapters and establishing such bonds of friendship among young and old as to make possible in the future the Fraternity of our dreams.

The Convention of 1915 actually took place over a period of two weeks and in several places, some of the most enjoyable features being the events held at Los Angeles and San Diego. However, the wonderfully organized committee carried through the programme in San Francisco in a manner it would be difficult to equal. Headquarters were at the Palace Hotel and the smoker and entertainments held in the city and at the Exposition were without equal in our annals.

At the banquet Brother Allen S. Chickering, Theta Zeta '97, President of the Pacific Coast Association presided and Brother Warren Gregory, Theta Zeta '87, acted as Toastmaster. The first speaker was Brother Arthur H. Hadley, Phi '76, President of Yale University, who gave an inspiring D. K. E. address which sounded the keynote of all the after dinner exercises. He was followed by Brother Herbert Hartwell Gibbs, Mu '84, President of the Fraternity, Brother Stanley Moore, Theta Zeta '01, and Brother Richard J. Foster, Jr., Delta Chi '16, President of the Convention. Brother Minot, author of the famous "Brothers in D. K. E." recited another original poem of equal worth, written for the occasion, entitled "East and West" and Brother Fred Emerson Brooks, Mu '73, recited the poem written for the official opening of the Exposition, a beautiful tribute to California and a welcome to the visiting Brothers.

The early winter saw the undertaking for the General Headquarters and Club formally launched at the New York dinner held at the Plaza in December, where the informal committees appointed the preceding year were authorized to organize a Joint Committee of Two Hundred to represent the entire Fraternity as well as the New York Association and the Council, and this Committee organized by the election of Brothers F. B. Jennings, Epsilon '72 as Chairman, Carlisle J. Gleason, Sigma '96, Vice-Chairman, James C. Colgate, Mu '84 as Treasurer and James Anderson Hawes, Phi '94, Secretary.

Brother Herbert Hartwell Gibbs was re-elected President of the Fraternity and the Council sent out to all our 13,000 living alumni, a circular letter in the form of questions and answers, giving information in condensed form about the Fraternity and especially in regard to the organization of the alumni into Chapter Associations and the business and financial support necessary for the Fraternity. This was the third circular letter sent to all our living alumni since 1910 and was in line with the constant endeavor of the Council to revive and maintain the active interest of our large alumni body in all parts of the world.

Several trips visiting Chapters, helping with raising the funds for new Chapter Houses and attempting to increase the interest of alumni in different sections of the country were taken by the General Secretary and the Travelling Secretary and this year saw the opening of two handsome new Chapter Houses. Our athletic record was maintained in a remarkable way in all branches of athletics, Brother Robert A. Gardner, Phi '13, securing the National American Golf Championship, Brother Herbert E. Vollmer, Gamma Beta '18 holding against all comers the world swimming record and Brother James E. Meredeth, Delta Kappa '16, securing several world records in short distance runs. We were also glad to ascertain, after careful investigation at all our Universities that the average of scholarship at most of our Chapters was considerably higher than several years prior when the matter was first investigated.

The following summer and fall were devoted exclusively to work of organizing the movement for our General Headquarters and Club and the Organization Committee of Two Hundred succeeded beyond our expectations. The building erected a few years ago by the Yale Club, then the largest College Club and one of the largest club buildings in the country, was finally secured for the Fraternity and this great thirteen-story, half-million-dollar structure, located at No. 30 West 44th Street, the very heart and centre of New York, was opened as the largest Fraternity building, the Council holding its fall meeting in the still incompleted building the end of October.

The Seventieth Annual Stated Convention was held in Cleveland, Ohio, on December 6th to 8th, 1916, with the Cleveland Alumni Association and the Beta Chi and Lambda Chapters as hosts. The headquarters were at the Hollenden Hotel and there was a large attendance of delegates and alumni.

The business sessions were of especial interest, as the last remaining question presented during the past six years of reorganization of the Fraternity was decided. The policy regarding extension was settled for some time to come on a conservative basis and the inactive Chapters were placed on the same basis as new applicants. The new Song Book then nearly completed, and the new Catalogue in course of preparation, were acted on and the Council reported that the end of the first year of the plan of compulsory alumni organization and taxation had proved its success and every Chapter but two at that time had fully organized their alumni into their respective Chapter Associations and had paid their proportion of tax for the support of the Fraternity. This practical conclusion of a long agitated question brought great credit to Brother Richard T. Greene, Chairman of the Council Committee on Alumni Organization.

No new applications for charters were considered and the strong and appealing application for the revival of our former Eta Alpha Chapter at Washington & Lee University was not granted. Brother James Anderson Hawes, Phi, was re-elected General Fraternity Secretary.

January of 1917 saw the formal opening and dedication of our great General Headquarters and Club, and little need be said here regarding this distinguished event and what this great centre of D. K. E. interest and influence will mean for the Fraternity at the present time and for many years to come. An account of the building is given elsewhere in this volume, and the help and usefulness of this general Chapter House, especially for our younger members, during the period of the war, has already proved its value to a degree impossible to estimate.

The spring of 1917 saw the publication of the new Song Book, which under the editorship of Brother Richard T. Greene is generally considered the finest Fraternity Song Book ever published and is a work of which the Fraternity can well be proud. Work on the new Catalogue was also completed (in the latter part of February, 1918) and was published through R. L. Polk & Co., of New York, and we believe will be of great interest and value to the Fraternity.

The war clouds had been growing darker for the United States during the winter and to the record of our Canadian Brothers, of which we are so proud, we may expect soon to add a similar record for the boys of our American Chapters. Immediately upon the United States entering into the war, the Council and Club called a meeting of our members and organized the Committee on National Service, with Brother Charles Baskerville, Eta '88 Chairman, Frederick Dwight, Phi '94 Vice-Chairman, Edwin N. Chapman, Epsilon '94, Treasurer and James Anderson Hawes, Phi '94 Secretary. This Committee sent out two circular letters to all the thirteen thousand living alumni in all parts of the world and the answers to our questionaire, which were card catalogued and copies sent to Washington for use of the Council of National Defense, will prove of great interest and value in the future. A considerable amount of money was raised for the expenses of the Committee, a D. K. E. Ambulance was placed at the front and work undertaken along several lines to help the country at her time of crisis. The Secretary devoted a great part of his time during the spring and summer to helping our younger members in their applications to the camps and assisting in other ways. The spirit and enthusiasm shown by our members, both young and old, proved that the college men and younger alumni of today have the same spirit and patriotism as made possible the wonderful record of Delta Kappa Epsilon in the Civil War. Some of our Chapters volunteered almost to a man and conditions the coming college year will be difficult in Chapter and Fraternity affairs. However, we would not have it otherwise and Delta Kappa Epsilon hopes to prove that the spirit and ideals of devotion to public service, whether college activities for the undergraduates, or war service or public life for the older men, lives to the same extent as when the Fraternity was founded and has maintained in peace and war for nearly three-quarters of a century. Plans were also made to open a Delta Kappa Epsilon Headquarters in Paris and London for our Brothers going abroad in the service of their country.

The Seventy-first Stated Annual Convention was held with the Council and the New York Club in our great new Headquarters in New York City. Because of the war this Convention was not as large in attendance as it otherwise would have been, but was of real interest in many respects. Because of conditions no large public banquet or other affair was held, but the satisfaction of the Fraternity was great at meeting and carrying on for nearly a week a most successful and relatively large Convention entirely within our own Fraternity building. No special business was transacted beyond routine matters and the re-election of Brother James Anderson Hawes as General Secretary, Brother Richard T. Green representing the Fraternity as President. The reports made and plans adopted looking toward devoting every particle of influence of the Fraternity to serve the Country in the war at home and abroad and the plans for our work on the other side, however, made this a noteworthy Convention.

At the banquet, a matter of history was referred to which is not only of interest to our members but to many others. The first officer killed, and as far as records show the first soldier giving his life on either side in the Civil War, was Brother Theodore Winthrop, Phi '48, and the last act of the war was the surrender of Brother Philip B. Spence, Zeta, our old Princeton Chapter, who commanded the last organized body of Confederate troops. It also appears that the first Officer of the United States killed in the Spanish War was Brother John Blair Gibbs, Phi Chi '78. Likewise in the present Great War the first American to lose his life at the front after the United States entered the war was Brother Paul G. Osborn, Pi '17. Thus D. K. E. may be said to have been closely associated in history with the opening and closing of the Civil War, the opening of the Spanish War and of the present Great War, our members thus being found in a place of leadership at the front in every war of this Country since the foundation of the Fraternity nearly three-quarters of a century ago.

A summary of the events in our Fraternity during the past seven years since the publication of the last catalogue and the conclusion of the Fraternity history there presented shows a remarkable advance. During these few years Delta Kappa Epsilon has adopted an entirely new constitution and system of Fraternity government and organization, more in line with the broad and democratic ideals of the day. It has organized its great alumni body of thirteen thousand members into Chapter Alumni Associations for every Chapter and has established the principle that "Once a Deke, always a Deke," with the consequent moral and financial obligations. It has purchased and maintains a great half million dollar General Headquarters and Club in the centre of New York. It carries on work among the Chapters and among the alumni through a General Secretary and Travelling Secretary to an extent at least equal to that of any other fraternity. It has doubled the income of the Council and established a central office where the interests of all the Chapters and General Fraternity are centered. It has increased the subscriptions to the Quarterly magazine among the alumni ten-fold; maintained in a remarkable way the athletic pre-eminence of the Fraternity and seen a considerable rise in scholarship of nearly all the Chapters. It has built nine handsome new Chapter Houses and rebuilt four others so that they may be considered almost as new houses and thus practically closed the Chapter House building period for the Fraternity. It has issued a fine new Song Book and the new Catalogue; has installed for the Chapters a uniform system of bookkeeping and accounts; has adopted and provided the Chapters with a new and carefully prepared Ritual of the highest standard and has kept the Chapters, Alumni Associations and the general alumni body fully informed by constant circular letters and pamphlets. Several chapters have established scholarship funds, and the Fraternity has by such undertakings as the work of the Committee on National Service, membership in the Inter-Fraternity Conference and organized work along other broad lines shown the remarkable development possible today for a strong and well organized fraternity. We believe this record of only seven years proves our present strong position and we trust foretells an even future broader sphere of influence and usefulness for Delta Kappa Epsilon. Our next history will cover the war period and we know will show a record of which we can be equally proud and fully consistent with our long tradition of devotion to public service.
